What does Clearshift offer?

Clearshift's flagship product is currency exchange at independent and transparent exchange rates, with no hidden spreads or fees.

Is a customer required to make any payments or incur fees if their account remains unused?

No, according to these Terms and Conditions, as long as no activity is initiated in the customer account, there is no obligation for them to make any payment or incur fees.

How do "reference" transactions work at Clearshift?

Clearshift and the customer designate a third party exchange rate supplier which will supply them daily exchange rates for certain currencies—the "reference rates." Clearshift commits to buying or selling currency from/to the customer at an upcoming reference rate. In other words, at the time of committing to the transaction, neither Clearshift nor the customer knows what the exchange rates that will apply to the transaction will be. The future is unknowledgeable, and thus, there is no information advantage for one party over the other.

How does the customer initiate transactions?

As mentioned, Clearshift offers currency exchange and payment services. Instructions are the means by which the customer instructs the company to initiate those transactions, and are usually done through the company's online payment system. Instructions are legally binding for the customer, and Clearshift may refuse to accept or cancel them if there is any doubt about their authenticity or intent. The customer is also responsible for ensuring that the instructions they give to the company are accurate, and Clearshift may refuse or cancel them if it believes they are not legal or authorized by the customer. Clearshift may also limit the customer's capabilities in their account and the volume of account activity; Clearshift may also conduct background checks or other examinations of the parties to transactions with the customer, prior to approval of account activity.

How does the customer access the online payment system?

Clearshift will assign the customer access credentials (passwords, two-factor authentication code, two-factor authentication device, etc.) with which the customer will be identified via Clearshift and the online payment system. The customer is responsible for the security of their access credentials, and will be liable for any loss resulting from their failure to do so. The customer must notify Clearshift immediately in the event of a suspected breach of their access credentials.

Is the customer authorized to appoint representatives to act on their behalf?

Yes, the customer can appoint representatives to act on their behalf in their account. The customer is responsible for the actions of their representatives. The customer is responsible for any loss resulting from unauthorized actions by their representatives. The process of appointing customer representatives is done through the company, as outlined in the terms and conditions.

Where will the available funds come from in the customer's account?

In order for there to be available funds for transactions in the customer's account, the customer or parties to a transaction with the customer will make bank deposits to Clearshift accounts or virtual accounts established for the customer, in accordance with instructions for deposits that Clearshift will provide. Clearshift will credit the customer's account balance for any actual deposit of funds, subject to the terms and conditions that have been set. The customer is responsible for any loss or damage resulting from incorrect deposits, including losses resulting from the return of a deposit in good faith to the wrong account. Clearshift is not responsible for any loss or damage resulting from transfers of funds made based on outdated deposit instructions or resulting from errors in the implementation of deposit instructions.

Can the customer cancel an instruction?

Customers can submit "update instructions" to cancel or make changes to instructions that have not yet been executed. However, these instructions must be sent through an authorized communication channel and before the deadline specified in the online payment system or otherwise.

What is a "standing instruction"?

The company offers to set up a "standing instruction" for customers who wish to make regular payments of a specific currency to a specific recipient. For the establishment of a "standing instruction," a one-time approval from the customer is required that will cover future exchange and payment transactions. At the time of establishing a standing instruction, the customer will provide the company with the designations and details for how future transactions will be executed. From that time on, a deposit of funds for the customer will cause a defined transaction to be executed without the need for further or renewed approval from the customer. After funds are deposited and the transaction is executed, the standing instruction will remain dormant until funds are deposited anew.

How do balances in a Clearshift account work?

Clearshift customers deposit funds into their accounts to use for transactions. At any time, a Clearshift account may have a credit balance or a debit balance as a direct outcome of deposits and transaction activity. A credit balance will be available for future transactions, while a debit balance will create a liability for the customer to Clearshift.

What payments are expected from the customer for the service and what is their rate?

Summary of Terms and Conditions

The customer will pay the consideration for the currency they purchase or sell at a rate determined according to the details of the transaction and according to the official exchange rate or another rate agreed upon between the customer and Clearshift and the amount of payment requested by the customer. In addition, Clearshift will charge the customer explicit fees for its services. The fee amount will be published in advance on Clearshift's website or otherwise. Clearshift is entitled to change the fee rates from time to time. Clearshift may delay, cancel, or reverse any instruction if the consideration and fees due to Clearshift for any instruction submitted by the customer have not been paid in full, including those due for previous instructions.

When does the customer pay for instructions they initiate?

In general, by the following banking day. For a payment instruction that includes the purchase of currency - the banking day after the purchase day. For a payment instruction without the purchase of currency - the banking day after the day of the instruction. For a future contract or a future payment transaction ("forward") - the settlement date specified in the separate agreement. Failure to pay on time constitutes a breach of contract and may result in penalties, liabilities, cancellations, and other actions by the company.

In cases of loss or damage arising from Clearshift services, what liabilities are imposed on whom?

The customer will indemnify Clearshift against damages caused to the company due to the customer's actions. Clearshift's liability is limited to the amount of fees collected by Clearshift from the customer in the 12 months preceding the event for which liability was imposed on Clearshift. Clearshift is not liable for damage to customer funds when it occurs in institutions or bodies that are not direct agents of Clearshift, such as intermediary banks. It is important to note that these are merely the main points and additional terms regarding liability are detailed in the terms and conditions.

What will Clearshift or the customer do if they want to close the customer's account?

There is no defined termination date for the agreement between Clearshift and the customer. The customer may initiate the closure of their account (i.e., terminate the agreement between the parties) with written notice to the company. Clearshift may initiate the closure of the customer's account by giving the customer 60 days' notice in advance, or, in the event of a breach by the customer, immediately. Clearshift may freeze the customer's account if it believes that the customer has breached the terms and conditions or if it has received notice of a legal claim against the customer. All subject to the provisions set out in the terms and conditions.

How does Clearshift implement changes to the terms and conditions?

Clearshift may unilaterally update the terms and conditions by providing written notice to the customer not less than 60 days before the effective date of the update. The customer will be deemed to have agreed to the amendments without the need for express consent, unless the customer has notified the company in writing before the effective date that they do not agree to the update(s).

Additional terms

Third parties: Clearshift may use its affiliated companies and outsourcing companies to assist in the performance of its services and activities, including various financial institutions in the United States, Europe, Israel and elsewhere.

The customer agrees that before initiating an arbitration proceeding, they will give the company an opportunity to address their concerns by filing a formal complaint with the company in accordance with the published complaint procedures that will be updated from time to time on the company's website or available upon request from the company's customer service center.

Summary of Terms and Conditions

Holding of funds: Clearshift holds its customers' funds in accordance with the law, in one or more accounts, separate from the company's funds, typically in a commercial bank. The separation between the customer's funds and the funds of other customers is based on Clearshift's ledger, and may not be recognized by the financial institution that actually holds the funds. Clearshift is entitled to use customer funds for the purpose of providing services for all its customers and Clearshift is entitled to transfer customer funds to a trustee appointed to hold customer funds for the benefit of customers.

Privacy and data confidentiality: The customer agrees to Clearshift's privacy policy, which allows the company to collect, use, and share their personal information. The customer understands that Clearshift may use their personal information for legitimate business purposes.

Note that, when doing a Transaction in different currencies or with Payment Counterparties in different countries, you may be indirectly doing business with a different Clearshift other than the one carrying your Account. In those cases, the Transactions and Services will be subject to the regulations and licenses applicable to such Clearshift entities.

2. While we may provide you with general information about currency exchange rates, we cannot and/or do not intend to provide you with any advice with respect to current and future currency market rates and conditions. No reason is required to be provided by the Company for denying any request to breach the scope of Services outside the profile(s) of activity. Consequently, not all items in the list of Services (see Services (Section on Definitions)) will necessarily be accessible or available to the Client, and accordingly, some provisions in these Terms and Conditions may be irrelevant as regards the Client; all according to the written or other communications made by the Company to the Client during the process of opening their Account. The Company will expand the Services available to the Client only after careful consideration, and the change in availability of Services will only come into effect once the Company has issued a written statement to the Client to that end. Such a change will not require reacceptance of these Terms and Conditions by the Client. (ii) The Company may impose, from time to time, specific limits on any of its Services, including without limitation limitations on the amount of individual conversion transactions or total unsettled conversion transactions, payment amounts and payment volume per period and holding period for cash balances over certain amounts, and such limits may be per currency, per beneficiary or any other criteria the Company chooses, all as updated and disclosed to Client from time to time, and, the Company may condition setting such limits and waiver of limits in any way (e.g., on Net Equity, age of account etc.). The Company may impose without notice, at its sole discretion, temporary limitations meant to limit risk to the Company at times of extreme market volatility and other unusual conditions. The Company may reject or delay any Instruction outside of any set limitations. (iii) The Client may submit a formal request for increase or decrease any of the above by contacting the support desk. The Company retains absolute discretion to grant or deny or conditions such requests. Without limiting the foregoing, the Company will communicate its decisions to the Client and provide a rationale, unless doing so would violate applicable law.

In addition to executing these Terms and Conditions in conjunction with any forms submitted to the Company referencing the Terms and Conditions, the following actions will further constitute agreement by you to be bound by these Terms and Conditions, as amended at the time of the relevant action: (1) instructing a financial institution to make a Deposit as per any Deposit Instructions issued to you by the Company, (2) delivering Deposit Instructions to a third party and requesting them to initiate a Deposit based on the Deposit Instructions and (3) issuing any Instruction to the Company via any permitted medium of communication.

5. The Company has no control over the products or services which are provided by and/or acquired from others and paid for by means of the Service, and is not liable therefore or obligated with respect thereto. The Company cannot guarantee completion of, or act in the capacity of a representative with regard to, a transaction by the buyer or seller with whom the Client has conducted such transactions and the Client will not make any representation otherwise to its Payment Counterparties.

6. The provision of Services to the Client is subject to satisfactory completion, and ongoing compliance with, the Company's regulatory compliance program and Written Policies, including without limitation customer identification procedures, know your customer and due diligence procedures, registration and approval of beneficiaries and sources, etc. Failure by the Company to disclose any requirement in advance or failure to request any information or limit/condition any Service requested on one occasion shall not be deemed a waiver of the same at a later occasion.

7. At any time during the contractual relationship the Client shall have a right to receive, on request, the latest version of the Terms Conditions to which he agreed. For the Client's convenience, the latest version of the Terms and Conditions will typically be posted by the Company on the Website.

For example, the delivery of the proceeds from a currency conversion Instruction may be canceled for compliance reasons without affecting the binding and final nature of the Instruction to purchase the currency. Furthermore, in the event that the Company does execute the Instruction without holding it up for the completion of one or more conditions, regardless of whether the Company initially demanded to fulfill those conditions or not, then (1) the Instruction and resulting Transactions are nonetheless binding on the Client and (2) the execution of the Instruction does not constitute a waiver by the Company of any conditions and the Client will continue to be obligated to fulfill those conditions.

2. Medium for Submitting an Instruction. An Instruction for receipt of Services may be accepted by the Company whether made by letter, e-mail, fax, telephone, file transfer, standing Instruction, or the Online Payment System. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Company may limit or refuse Instructions via any of these communication mediums or delay their execution pending further verification by another communication medium, all in accordance with the Company's Written Policies and procedures.

The determining time at which Instructions will be considered as having been "received" by the Company shall be as follows: A) online Instructions are deemed received at the time the transaction ID number is communicated to the Client on the Online Payment System; B) Instructions by phone, fax or email are deemed received at the time the Instructions are confirmed with the Company's customer service representative or via Transaction Confirmation email with a transaction ID. Instructions received after the end of a Business Days' Hours of Operation, or on a day other than a Business Day, will be deemed to have been "received" at the beginning of the next Business Day. An Instruction which is, in whole or in part, not clear, not consistent, not complete or contains invalid details, or whose supporting documentation isn't legible, clear and complete, is an "Invalid Instruction" will not be considered "received" by the Company until such Instruction is replaced with a valid one or is properly amended, as confirmed by the Company. The Company may, in its sole discretion, choose to either reject or cancel such an Invalid Instruction or attempt to unilaterally correct or resolve the deficiencies in the Invalid Instruction, in which case the Client hereby agrees to accept and authorize such corrections without the need to obtain further approval from the Client. In any event, the Company's choice to reject or correct an Invalid Instruction in any one or more instances does not obligate the Company to act in the same manner with regards to any future Invalid Instructions, regardless of how similar they are, with the Company reserving its right in each future instance to choose to reject or correct the Invalid Instruction.

4. Reliance on Instruction. The Client represents with respect to each Instruction submitted by, on behalf of or with the consent of the Client or any agents of the Client (1) the person submitting the Instruction is duly authorized to do so on behalf of the Client (2) the Instruction and the Services requested in the Instruction have been duly and unconditionally authorized by the Client and do not violate any applicable law and all necessary approvals have been duly obtained and remain effective, and (3) the Instruction is legally binding on the Client. Client hereby authorizes the

Section 3: Instructions

Company to, in good faith, accept, act and rely upon any Instruction, no matter the medium by which communicated, that reasonably appears to be a genuine Instruction of the Client, a Client Representative or legal agent of the Client. Subject to any express limitations of applicable law, the Client will be liable for the full Settlement of any such Instruction and resulting obligations, unless the Client can prove that the Instruction (1) was not in fact issued by or with the consent of the Client, a Client Representative, a legal agent, person with apparent authority (including spouse), or employee of the Client OR a person with control of, in the control of or under common control with the Client, (2) there was no fault of the Client in enabling such unauthorized Instruction to be delivered to or accepted by the Company and (3) the Company was negligent in failing to identify the Instruction as unauthorized. The Company's liability for reasonably relying on an Instruction which was in fact a forgery of a physical document or a forged electronic message, is limited to any insurances the Company may at its sole discretion carry to cover such risks. Without limiting the foregoing or any other express provisions of these Terms and Conditions, the Company has the right, at its sole discretion, to decline to accept any Instruction, or cancel any Instruction irrespective of whether a Transaction Confirmation has been issued or the Settlement Amount or any portion thereof has been received by the Company, if it has any subjective doubt regarding its authenticity, or has any doubts regarding its meaning or intent (such as in the case of verbal Instructions by voice or email), or has any reason to believe there has been miscommunication or misunderstanding between the Client and the Company, including a misunderstanding of these Terms and Conditions. The Company will promptly notify the Client that it is declining to accept such Instruction.

5. Authorized Representatives. The Client will provide the Company from time to time with a list of one or more representatives to act on behalf of the Client vis-à-vis the Client's Account with the Company. On a Trust Account, only the Account Trustee, and not the Account Beneficiary, is authorized to act or designate Client Representatives to act on behalf of the Client vis-à-vis the Client's Trust Account with the Company. At the Client's request, the Company will issue Access Methods to the Client Representatives for the purpose of securely verifying the authenticity of Instructions submitted by or actions taken by Client Representatives. Each Client Representative may independently update and maintain their own Access Methods (e.g., password) at any time after the Company's initial issuance of the Access Methods. In addition, the "Primary User", designated as such by the Client at the time of the opening of the Client Account, as updated from time to time by the Client, may, at any time after the initial issuance of Access Methods to a Client Representative, instruct the Company to terminate or change the Client Access Methods (e.g., reset password) or amend or restrict certain permissions associated with any Client Representative or their Access Methods. (A) The Company retains absolute discretion to deny Client requests to authorize additional Client Representatives and to unilaterally revoke or suspend any active Client Representative authorizations or Access Methods, provided that Company will notify Client of such action to the extent possible given its concerns of fraudulent activity. Company may refuse to recognize any resolution or document, affecting the access rights to the Account, including without limitation a corporate resolution authorizing Client Representatives, if it appears to the Company to be incomplete, improperly executed or fraudulent. (B) The Client is aware that the Company is under no obligation to monitor the fidelity of any Client Representative or its legal capacity to act on behalf of the Client, nor is the Company under any obligation to investigate any Instruction issued, or action taken by a Client Representative. The Client acknowledges that disputes between it and its Client Representatives, related or unrelated to the Client's Account, are not the concern of the Company, and the Company is not a party to any claim or dispute between the Client and its Client Representatives. The Client further understands and accepts that any Instruction issued, or any other action taken, by any Client Representative is in all respects treated as being taken by the Client through its duly-authorized agent. The Client accepts that he is bound by any Instruction issued or any other action taken by a Client Representative, whether or not it is within or without the scope of authority given by the Client to the Client Representative. And the Client is responsible for ensuring that its Client Representatives act in accordance with applicable law, these Terms and Conditions, and any published Terms of Use, and any published Privacy Policy and the permissions delegated to Client Representatives do not relieve the Client of any responsibility under these Terms and Conditions. (C) The Client will ensure that its Client Representatives adequately protect their Access Methods against exposure to others or use by others, including protecting the access to any devices that contain or are used as an integral part of the Access Methods, all as mandated by Essential Security Measures (Section on Using the Online Payment System) and elsewhere in these Terms and Conditions. Regardless of any course of conduct or information known to the Company to the contrary, the Company is relying on the Client to ensure at all times that all Access Methods are used exclusively by the Client Representatives to which they were issued.

(D) The Client will immediately notify the Company regarding any development, change or termination affecting the safety, relevance, validity or appropriateness of continued authorization and/or access granted to a Client Representative. This includes without limitation, scenarios such as the termination of a Client Representative's employment with the company. Such notice must be given immediately in writing to the Company's customer support center, whose contact details are provided on the Company's Website. Notice will not be deemed completed until the earlier of the following conditions is met: (a) an officer or employee of the Company acknowledges the receipt of such notice, or, (b) the maximum commercially reasonable period of time for processing such notice has passed. Upon receipt of such notice, the Company will take commercially reasonable steps to terminate or amend the Client Representative's authorization and Access Methods. For the avoidance of doubt, authorization of a Client Representative and the Client's liability therefore, is valid and remains in full force until revoked as outlined above. (E) Without exempting the Company from gross negligence, to the fullest extent not expressly restricted by applicable law, the Client shall indemnify and hold the Company harmless for any losses or damages arising in whole or in part from any act of the Client's Representatives, employees, directors, agents, or independent contractors or anyone acting from the premises of the Client or its Representatives through any of the devices in the possession, custody or control of the Client or its Representatives, including without limitation any losses arising from the transfer of Client's funds to an unintended third party made by Company in accordance with an Instruction which Client claims was not validly authorized that are not subsequently recovered from the such third party or from insurances of the Company, if any, that cover such risk events.

(F) To the fullest extent not expressly restricted by applicable law, Instructions to transfer funds to a payee who is a Registered Account or who was a designated payee of a previously executed authorized funds transfer Instruction from the Client, or to an affiliate under common control of the Client, shall be treated as authorized by the Client, unless the Client proves that (1) the Instruction was not authorized by or issued with the consent of the Client, (2) the Client did not and does not stand to derive a benefit from the Registered Account for the execution of the Instruction AND (3) the Client has diligently exhausted all commercially reasonable means available to it in pursuing the recovery of the funds transferred to the payee.

(G) Instructions issued in fact by the Client, a Client Representative or an agent legally acting on the Client's behalf will not be considered unauthorized Instructions merely because they are not properly signed, verified or otherwise confirmed or further approved by the Client, and the Client will hold the Company harmless for failure to enforce any authority limits, conditions, multiple approval/signature requirements or other approval schemes, unless expressly agreed to in writing by the Company. Furthermore, so long as the Company discharges its legal and contractual duties to authenticate the identity of a Client Representative, the Company disclaims any responsibility for enforcing any one specific security or authentication measure or further requirement that the Company may choose from time to time to enforce or waive in its sole discretion. Furthermore, a Transaction Confirmation indicating that an Instruction is pending the receipt of one or more signatures will not be interpreted as changing the otherwise binding nature of the underlying Instruction.

(H) The Client shall indemnify and hold the Company harmless for any losses arising in whole or in part from unauthorized use of the Client's or Client Representative's devices or Access Methods resulting from or fairly traceable to the Client's or Client Representative's failure to exercise prudent and reasonable care with respect to securing Access Methods and devices, as provided in Essential Security Measures (Section on Using the Online Payment System), or any negligence on part of the Client in discovering the compromise or misappropriation of the Access Methods or connected devices or negligence in notifying the Company in a timely manner, as provided in Compromise of the Client

Access Methods (Section on Using the Online Payment System). Failure to follow the Company's written guidelines for securing the Access Methods will be considered negligent behavior by the Client.

6. Inaccurate or Erroneous Instructions. Before providing an Instruction to the Company, the Client or the Client Representative will verify that the information included in the Instruction is complete, precise, and, if made in writing, legible. In the event that the Client discovers any error (including without limitation any error resulting from a third party defrauding the Client, its Representative, its agents or its counterparties) in an Instruction after its issuance, the Client is required to inform the Company immediately in writing to the Company's customer support center, whose contact details are provided on the Company's Website. Subject to the terms of this section and any absolute rights of the Client under these Terms and Conditions to cancel an Instruction, upon receiving the Client's proper request for correction or cancellation and verifying the authenticity of the request, the Company will act in a commercially reasonable manner to effectuate the correction or cancellation provided by the Client, provided that the Company will not be liable for any losses that Client claims could have been avoided, mitigated or recovered if the Company had acted differently with respect to such request. If the Company fails to receive a timely request for correction or cancellation, or is unable to timely verify its authenticity, or is in fact unable to correct or cancel the execution of the Client's Instruction, the Client will hold the Company harmless for any losses from the execution of the Instruction, including without limitation losses arising from the transfer of funds to a third party, made pursuant to and in accordance with an erroneous Instruction, that are not recovered, for any reason whatsoever from the third party or any insurance. No fraud or error detection procedures or systems that the Company may in its sole discretion have in place or prior actions of the Company will be interpreted as placing the burden and responsibility on the Company for detecting fraud against the Client or errors of the Client. The Client is aware that neither the Company nor the Company's financial institutions nor the receiving financial institution verify the actual names of the destination bank account holders. Any funds transfers made in accordance with the bank account codes (clearing code, branch and account number) in an Instruction shall be deemed a properly executed Instruction irrespective of whether the beneficiary, as designated in the Instruction, does or does not match the account title as registered at the receiving financial institution.

7. Client Cancellation or Change Request. The Client may issue an "Update Instruction" requesting to cancel an Outstanding Instruction or, alternatively, to make limited changes thereto, which may include for example changes to the Instruction amount, the conversion date or settlement instructions. Any such Update Instruction will only be valid if delivered by a communication channel through which the Client is authorized to deliver Instructions to the Company and must be received by the Company before the cancellation cutoff times noted in the Transaction Confirmation or on the Online Payment System at the time the Instruction is submitted. Any currency conversion Instruction for which a currency conversion rate was quoted and accepted or was otherwise applied (e.g., via Standing Instruction or Conditional Order) cannot be canceled or modified, as the currency conversion is final. Without limiting the foregoing, cancellations of or changes to Reference Rate Orders prior to the application of a currency conversion rate are further limited by the terms and condition in Addendum A. Client acknowledges these limitations and will take them into account when submitting an Instruction. Any such Update Instruction received after the cutoff times or that doesn't meet any other conditions for cancellation may be rejected by the Company, at its sole discretion, and the Company will promptly notify the Client of the rejection or of any additional conditions to accepting and executing the Update Instruction. The Client is aware that the provision of a Service by the Company based on Client's Instruction involves the execution of financial actions related to the requested Service, and that executing any cancellation or change may incur losses, costs, damages, fees and/or expenses to the Company. Regardless of whether the Company expressly conditions the acceptance of the Update Instruction on the indemnification of such losses or whether the Company specifies or estimates the amount of such losses, the Client agrees to fully indemnify the Company with respect to all or any of the foregoing which may be caused to the Company in connection with said Update Instruction, and the Company will have the right to immediately offset such sums from the Settlement Amounts transmitted by the Client to the Company and/or from the Client Account Balance, without limiting the Company's right to demand an immediate Deposit from the Client to cover such losses.

8. Company Cancellation. The Company shall be entitled (1) to cancel or reject all or part of any Instruction, irrespective of whether a Transaction Confirmation has been issued or the Settlement Amount or any portion thereof has been received by the Company, and/or (2) to prevent access to an Online Payment System in any of the following circumstances: (a) the Client has violated, or is otherwise in default under, these Terms and Conditions or any other terms, agreement or arrangement with the Company; or (b) where the carrying out by the Company of any such Instruction or provision of access to an Online Payment System would be unlawful, illegal or would contravene the applicable requirements of any applicable regulatory authority or the Company's Written Policies and procedures adopted pursuant to regulatory requirements; or (c) where the Company suspects an unauthorized or fraudulent use of the Services, an Online Payment System, the Client Access Methods; or (d) the Client becomes insolvent, goes into liquidation and/or administration and/or receivership and/or is unable to pay its debts as and when they fall due; or (e) the Client has failed to timely and adequately comply with a request from the Company for compliance-related information or documentation, regardless whether related to the Instruction being canceled or rejected, or any other Outstanding Instruction or even Transactions already executed in the past; or (f) breach of these Terms and Conditions and/or termination of the Account. If the Company decides to cancel or reject any Instruction or prevent access to an Online Payment System, for any of the reasons stated above, the Company will promptly notify the Client. The Client further agrees to indemnify the Company in full against all losses, costs, damages, charges and expenses (including without limitation, foreign exchange losses) incurred by the Company in connection with any such cancellation or prevention of access and to hold the Company harmless of any losses, costs, damages, charges and expenses (including without limitation, foreign exchange losses) incurred by the Client in connection with any such cancellation or prevention of access.

9. Issuance of Transaction Confirmation. For each Instruction accepted or Transaction completed, the Company will either send to the Client a Transaction Confirmation or notify the Client that a Transaction Confirmation has been posted and can be retrieved, using any means of communication it deems appropriate. If the Client has not received the Transaction Confirmation within one Business day after submitting the Instruction to the Company, the Client must contact the Company to request a copy of the Transaction Confirmation. The Client agrees to promptly review each Transaction Confirmation for accuracy and immediately advise the Company of any error or discrepancy in the Transaction Confirmation. The Company is not responsible for inaccurate transcription of an Instruction issued via informal communication medium, including email, phone conversation, in person, fax or other form of written document upload/transmission, etc. It is the Client's sole responsibility to promptly review any Transaction Confirmation resulting from such Instruction and immediately notify the Company of any transcription errors. Failure by the Client to promptly and carefully review such an Instruction is negligent conduct and any loss that may result from such transcription error will be attributed to such negligent failure to identify and correct the error in a timely manner. For avoidance of doubt, the validity of an Instruction as binding on the Client, is in no way conditioned on the Client receiving a Transaction Confirmation nor on the Company obtaining any authentication or verification of the Instruction, to the extent the Instruction was in fact issued by the Client or with their authorization. Accordingly, the Client should not interpret non-receipt of a Transaction Confirmation as cancellation or rejection of the Instruction by the Company or indicative that the Instruction was not received or accepted by the Company. The Client is solely responsible for any actions taken by the Client under such a mistaken belief, including but not limited to any duplicate Instructions or Transactions the Client submits and the Client will hold the Company harmless for any losses resulting from the duplicate Instructions and/or Transactions.

10. Stale Instructions. The Client understands that the validity of Outstanding Instructions is not limited in time, and that execution of an Outstanding Instruction by Company, no matter how old, does not require any renewed authorization, verification or consent by the Client. The Client further understands that a new Instruction does not automatically replace any Outstanding Instruction, regardless of how similar they may be, and that the Company is not responsible to identify potential duplicate Instructions or conflicting Instructions, such responsibility belonging solely to the Client, who is fully obligated to settle all Instructions it issues unless validly canceled in accordance with these Terms and Conditions. Notwithstanding and without derogating the foregoing, the Company may from time to time in its sole discretion attempt to identify and prevent, delay or cancel seemingly duplicate Instructions. The Company reserves the right, without being obligated, to cancel any and all Outstanding payment Instructions, at its sole discretion, including those it believes are “stale” and may have been forgotten by the Client.

11. Standing Instructions. Instructions generated by a trigger or condition pursuant to a validly-authorized Standing Instruction (“Standing Instruction Instances”) are automatic and do not require separate or renewed authorization, verification or consent by the Client for each instance that the trigger or condition is met and a new Instruction is generated. Standing Instructions are considered valid and authorized until expressly terminated or revoked by the Client in writing via the Online Payment System, email, or fax, referencing the Standing Instruction and requesting to stop all future Standing Instruction Instances. The Company will respond to such requests in a commercially reasonable time and manner, but in any event no later than the end of the following Business Day, after which no further Standing Instruction Instances will be generated by the Standing Instruction. The Client understands that the time in which a Standing Instruction was originally authorized by the Client has no bearing at all on the Fees or exchange rate applicable to each Standing Instruction Instance, all of which will be based on the Client Account's Terms and Conditions in effect at the time each Standing Instruction Instance is generated. Furthermore, Standing Instruction Instances will be deemed issued and authorized by the Primary User of the Client's Account at the time the Standing Instruction Instance is triggered, regardless of the identity of the person that originally issued and authorized the Standing Instruction and the Client further agrees that the original authorization of the Standing Instruction is sufficient and valid for all future Standing Instruction Instances without regard to the legal status or position of said original issuer or their authority as a Representative of the Client at the time Standing Instruction Instance is triggered. The Client acknowledges also that any payment Instruction the Client initiates while a Standing Instruction remains in effect does not automatically supersede or cancel any Standing Instruction and may lead to the execution of two separate transaction, the particular Instruction and the Standing Instruction Instance. In such an event, the Client accepts full responsibility for the complete Settlement of both transactions. The Client understands that to avoid this, before issuing a payment Instruction, the Client will check whether there is an applicable Standing Instruction outstanding and, in the event there is one, cancel the Standing Instruction as per this paragraph before issuing a payment Instruction.

12. Rejected or Failed Payments. The Client acknowledges that payments initiated by the Company based on the Client's Instructions may encounter a rejection from either the receiving financial institution or intermediary financial institutions or payment systems. In such cases, the Company will promptly inform the Client of the rejection or failure, noting whether the payment funds have been returned to the Company or the Company has received notice of the rejection prior to return of the payment funds. It is understood by the Client that the Company is not capable of, nor accountable for, verifying the accuracy of such rejection or failure notices received by the Company from other financial institutions or other payment networks and cannot be certain of the payment rejection unless and until the payment is credited back to the Company's account at the originating financial institution. The Client agrees not to take any action in reliance on the initial rejection or failure notice from the Company until the Company confirms that the funds have been finally credited back to the Company and the Company is under no obligation to credit the Client's Account Balance until actually and finally received by the Company. The Client assumes the risk of any subsequent payments it makes or other actions it takes based solely on such notice of rejection in the event the rejection notice subsequently turns out to be erroneous. Furthermore, to the extent the amount credited back to the Company from the rejected payment is less than the amount of the original payment made by the Company, regardless of whether the difference is charged by the beneficiary, the recipient financial institution, any intermediate financial institution, the payment network or the Company's originating financial institution, the Company will only credit the Client's Account Balance for the amount of the actual credit posted back to the Company's account at the originating financial institution.

13. Instructions not Conditional. Any Instruction from the Client to convert all or a portion of the proceeds of a Deposit from a Payor, whether a Standing Instruction triggering an actual or impending Deposit or by a specific Instruction related to a specific actual or anticipated Deposit, shall be absolute and binding on the Client in accordance with these Terms and Conditions and will not be interpreted as conditional on, including without limitation, (1) the Deposit being received at all or on time, regardless of the fault of the Client or control over the Deposit, (2) the Company's approval or rejection as a Nonconforming Deposit of the Deposit or for some other compliance reason, (3) the sufficiency in amount of the Deposit to cover the Settlement Amount of the Instruction or (4) any change or mistake in the terms of the underlying transaction between the Client and its customer or business counterparty.

14. Delivery Time. Without limiting anything provided in these Terms and Conditions, including without limitation, any Company rights to reject, delay or cancel Instructions and Transactions pursuant to these Terms and Conditions, delivery of payments shall be as follows:

(i) Where the Instruction is denominated in US Dollars (USD) and specifies a receiving bank account in the US, or Euros (EUR) and specifies a receiving bank account in the EEA, or in Israeli Shekels (ILS/NIS) and specifies a receiving bank account in Israel, the Company shall ensure that the amount of the Instruction is credited to the Payee's bank account by the end of the Business Day (as defined in Acceptance of Instruction (Section on Instructions)) following the later of (1) funding of Settlement Amount, (2) the publication of the Actual Rate (See Addendum A) applied to the Instruction, (3) authentication of Instruction by the Client.

(ii) Where the Instruction is denominated in Dollars, Euros or Shekels but otherwise different from subparagraph (i), or where the Instruction is denominated in a currency other than Dollars, Euros or Shekels, the Company shall ensure that the amount of the Instruction is credited to the Payee's bank account by the end of the fourth Business Day following the later of (1), (2) or (3) of subparagraph (i).

Section 4: Deposits

1. Agency. In order to provide Client an efficient and convenient means of collection of cross-border payments from its customers and business counterparties, the Client hereby authorizes, designates and appoints the Company, directly and through Third-Party Payment Processors, as its payee agent to receive Deposits on behalf the Client from Payors, and the Company hereby accepts such agency appointment.

2. Deposit Credit. The Company agrees to credit the Client Account Balance in accordance with these Terms and Conditions, for any actual Deposit of funds received to the extent the Deposit conforms with the Deposit Instruction issued by the Company to the Client and any conditions and limits therein. Book Transfers will be credited in accordance with additional terms and conditions in Addendum B.

3. AML Compliance and Tax Withholding. Credit to Client Account Balance from a Deposit is subject to the Company's Anti-Money Laundering compliance policies and procedures. Client agrees that even if the Company credited the Client Account Balance and/or issued the Client a Transaction Confirmation, the Company reserves the right to return or reject a Deposit or restrict its availability pending completion of compliance activities. Furthermore, Client agrees that in the event the Company believes in good faith that a Deposit may be subject to a tax withholding obligation which applies to both the Client or Payor and to the Company, the Company may hold back the amount it estimates as the Company's potential tax withholding liability, pending clarification of the applicable law. If the Company determines that such amount is subject to tax withholding by the Company, the Client agrees that any amount so withheld may be transferred to the relevant tax authority in accordance with applicable tax law, including any reporting requirement. The Company will notify the Client regarding such transfers, unless the law requires otherwise. If Client notifies Company in a timely manner that it prefers a Deposit Return and such Deposit Return is legal and reasonably feasible, the Company will make a Deposit Return. In any event, Client agrees not to use the Services to evade any tax withholding obligations, regardless of whether or not such withholding requirement applies to the Company as well. The Company shall bear no liability to the Client for funds transferred by the Company to tax or government authorities based on its reasonable belief it has a legal obligation necessitating such transfers, and the Client hereby waives in advance any claim or demand towards the Company in respect of any such postponement, non-performance or withholding. The Client's sole recourse will be to the tax authority to whom the funds were transferred by the Company even if a subsequently discovered and accurate interpretation of the law contradicts the Company's original reasonable belief regarding its obligations.

4. Deposit Instructions. Upon Client's registration of a sending bank account, including accurate details regarding the account legal and beneficial ownership, the financial institution and the bank account identifying details (the "Registered Account"), the Company will issue the Client a Deposit Instruction, or update an existing one, which may include a unique identifier to be transmitted with all Deposits from the Registered Account. By issuing an instruction to a financial institution to make a Deposit as per Deposit Instructions, or by delivering the Deposit Instructions to a third party and requesting them to initiate a transfer based on the Deposit Instructions, the Client is affirmatively (1) accepting these Terms and Conditions, as amended at the time (2) authorizing and affirming the execution of any Outstanding Instructions confirmed by the Company, (3) guaranteeing to the Company that the resulting Deposit is Cleared Funds, (4) representing and warranting that any information provided or to be provided to the originating financial institution regarding the Company and/or the nature of the Deposit (including the fact that it is connected to a cross-border transaction), the beneficiary, the ultimate destination and/or the purpose of the requested Deposit is true correct and complete and (5) representing and warranting to the Company that the instruction to the originating financial institution is final and irrevocable and that Client will under no circumstance attempt to cause the cancellation, modification, recall or reversal of the resulting Deposit.

5. Deposit Instructions: Additional Terms. A Deposit Instruction issued for deposits from one Registered Account is NOT valid for deposits from any other bank account, unless the Deposit Instruction explicitly authorizes deposits from multiple bank accounts. The Client agrees to notify the Company in writing of any change in the information provided regarding any Registered Account, which change shall in any case invalidate the Deposit Instruction until reissued by the Company. The Company may seek to verify transmitted information with any Deposit against information provided by the Client for the Registered Account and may reject or delay, pending receipt of satisfactory additional documentation (e.g., originating financial institution confirmations of intra-day RTGS transfers or certain ACH transfers), any Deposit where the transmitted information is lacking or does not match the information provided by the Client regarding the Registered Account, including any information provided regarding the identity of the owner of the Registered Account or the nature of the Deposit transaction. In addition, the Company may refuse to issue, or cancel a Deposit Instruction, or restrict the transfer types, for a Registered Account, to the extent insufficient sender information is transmitted by the originating/sender financial institution and/or received by the Company's receiving financial institution (e.g., certain ACH transfers or transfer from FBO commingled accounts). The Company may cancel or modify the Deposit Instructions from time to time by written notice to the Client, such notice to be effective immediately unless provided otherwise in the notice. To the extent the Deposit instructions are for Deposits from a Registered Account in the control of a third party, Client agrees to notify such third party promptly of the cancellation or modification of the relevant Deposit Instructions and ensure that no further Deposits will be made using the original Deposit Instructions. The Company shall not be liable for any losses or damages arising from the Deposits made on the basis of outdated Deposit Instructions by the Client, or his failure to notify a third party of their modification or cancellation. The Client is responsible for ensuring that they are providing third parties with the most up-to-date Deposit Instructions. To prevent phishing, the Client agrees that any notice of changes to Deposit Instructions purportedly issued by the Company must be verified with the Company before sending funds in accordance with the purportedly revised Deposit Instructions. The Company disclaims any responsibility for transfers made by the Client to a wrong account, and not actually received by Clearshift, based on a forged or fraudulent communication to the Client purporting to be made from Clearshift. The Company will ensure that its Deposit Instructions are accurate and reliable. Nonetheless, the Client must review Deposit Instructions for conspicuous errors, and will hold the company harmless for any losses resulting from its failure to review the Deposit Instructions. Should such errors be evident, the Client must abstain from utilizing the Deposit Instruction until receiving additional guidance from the Company. For any questions, uncertainties or doubts concerning a Deposit Instruction, the Client agrees to contact customer support, whose contact information is published on the Website. The Company will not be held liable for any losses that could have been averted or mitigated had the Client contacted customer support to address its questions, uncertainties, doubts or notice of error. Additionally, the Company disclaims any responsibility for a, Client, Client Representative, sender or sending financial institution mishandling or misconstruing of a Deposit Instruction forwarded to it by Client, including without limitation sending the wrong currency.

6. Nonconforming Deposit. Any Deposits that do not conform with a Deposit Instruction issued to the Client ("Nonconforming Deposit") will be treated as follows: The Company will make reasonable efforts to ascertain the intended beneficiary of the Deposit, but the Company is not responsible to contact the sender of the Nonconforming Deposit and is, furthermore, not required to accept or rely on any information it may receive from the sender regarding its intentions. If the Company has any doubt whatsoever in ascertaining the intended beneficiary of a Nonconforming Deposit, the Company may in its sole discretion reject or return Deposit (a "Rejected Deposit"), either immediately or after waiting a period of time, determined in the sole discretion of the Company, for more information to surface.

7. Erroneous Credit for Deposit. To the extent the Company erroneously identifies a Nonconforming Deposit and credits another client for a Deposit that was actually intended for the Client, whether the Deposit was made by the Client itself or a third party from a Registered Account, the Client agrees to indemnify the Company against any losses to the Company resulting from the error and agrees that the Company may offset such losses against the Client's claim to the Nonconforming Deposit and/or the Client Account Balance, provided that the losses were not caused by the Company's negligence and the Company has diligently pursued the recovery of the losses. The Client agrees to notify the Company promptly, upon learning or suspecting [one or more of the following] (1) that a Deposit was erroneously credited to the Client, (2) that the amount of the credit was erroneous or (3) that a duplicate credit was issued for the same Deposit. The Client further agrees to refrain from utilizing those funds until the Company makes a final determination and any adjustment to the credit. The Company may, without any limitation of time whatsoever, cancel or adjust such erroneous Deposit credit and notify the Client of such cancelation or adjustment and the circumstances thereof. To the extent the Client received value for such funds, whether by virtue of an express request of the Client in good faith or otherwise or whether without any specific request of the Client (e.g., by execution of an automated standing Instruction triggered by the Deposit), whether such value is received directly or by crediting a counterparty of the Client, the funds will be treated as an Uncovered Withdrawal and the Client agrees to repay and/or return to the Company immediately the amount of the erroneous credit or return the value delivered, subject to the Client's right to indemnification of any direct losses to suffered by Client caused by the erroneous credit and subsequent cancelation/adjustment that arise purely from the negligence of the Company without any fault on the part of the Client. In the event the Client takes financially-consequential action based on a false impression arising from erroneous reporting (e.g., erroneously reporting origin or other details of a Deposit) or erroneous crediting of a Deposit to the Client, the Client will hold the Company harmless for any losses arising therefrom, subject to the Client's right to indemnification for direct losses suffered by Client that arise purely from negligence of the Company without any fault on the part of the Client. For the purpose of this subsection, negligence on the Company's part, shall be failure to notify the Client within one Business Day (as defined in Acceptance of Instruction (Section on Instructions)) of discovering the error, at a minimum.

8. Return of Deposits. When the Company returns a Deposit to the sender (a "Deposit Return"), the Company will make reasonable efforts to return the Deposits to the account it was sent from or, if not technically feasible, to such other account that the sender and/or Client may instruct, subject to the approval of the Company of such instructions. In all cases, whether the Deposit Return is made by rejection or by new transfer the Client acknowledges and agrees that the amount of the Deposit Return may be reduced by any and all out of pocket costs reasonable standard handling charges for processing and Deposit Return and any fees and/or penalties applicable to the Deposit Return as per the Fee Schedule, all of which are the responsibility of the Client and the sender. As a general matter, Deposit Returns will be treated under these Terms and Conditions as if the Client issued an Instruction for the Deposit Return, including without limitation with respect to duplicative Transactions. Without derogating the foregoing, the Client will hold the Company harmless from any liability for losses resulting from a Deposit Return made in good faith to the wrong account or for any action or omission of the sending financial institution after a Deposit Return is returned to it.

9. Cash and Equivalent Deposits. Neither the Company nor its employees and agents accept physical delivery of cash and cash equivalents (including negotiable instruments such as open/endorsed checks). Any representation to the contrary is invalid and may not be relied upon. The Company is not liable for deposits of cash or of any kind mailed to Company or to any of its banking partners, including without limitation if they are lost in transit, or otherwise not received by Company. Nor does the Company have any responsibility to mail such deposits back or ensure their return.

10. Confirmation of Deposit. The Company will monitor on a daily basis the account at the destination financial institution designated in the Deposit Instruction for the posting of any new Deposits and, after ascertaining that the Client is the intended beneficiary of a new Deposit, will promptly (but not later than the end of the next Business Day(as defined in Acceptance of Instruction, Section on Instructions)) confirm the Deposit to the Client by sending the Client a Transaction Confirmation, using any means of communication it deems appropriate. The Client agrees to promptly review each Transaction Confirmation notice for accuracy and immediately advise the Company of any error or discrepancy therein.

11. Deposit Inquiry. In the event the Client believes that the Company has failed to issue a Transaction Confirmation or otherwise fully credit the Client Account Balance for a Deposit intended for the benefit of the Client, the Client will promptly notify the Company regarding the Deposit in question in writing (the "Deposit Inquiry"). Failure by the Client to promptly submit a Deposit Inquiry shall exempt and release the Company from any liability for losses to the Client to the extent caused wholly or partly by unreasonable Client delay in initiating a Deposit Inquiry. The Deposit Inquiry must include evidence from the sending financial institution that the Deposit was actually made and debited against the sending bank account and, in addition, and must obtain and provide the Company written confirmation of either (1) the instructions actually received by the sending financial institution from sending account holder or (2) the sending financial institution's own record of the details of the Deposit transfer executed. Absent this information, the Company will not be obligated to investigate and respond to the Deposit Inquiry. Without limiting the foregoing, by initiating a Deposit Inquiry, the Client authorizes the Company and its agents to directly contact any third-party sender or their financial institutions for the purposes of resolving the Deposit Inquiry or verifying any information provided by the Client or resolving any compliance questions that may be causing a delay in the execution of the Deposit.

12. Deposit Credit Amount. The Company will credit the Client for the full net amount actually received by the Company's financial institution. Any fees for the Deposit charged to the Company by the Company's receiving financial institution within the framework of the Company's account and relationship with the financial institution will be borne by the Company (the "Deposit Fees"), provided that all fees or charges for Deposit Returns associated with the Client may be charged to the Client and/or deducted from the Deposit Return. The Client agrees, where possible, to designate or cause the sender to designate "Our", or any equivalent designation, in the instruction to the sending financial institution with regard to transfer charges, unless otherwise stated in the Deposit Instructions, and understands that the any other designation will likely result in unpredictable correspondent fees deducted by intermediary financial institutions prior to the receipt of the Deposit at the Company's financial institution, reducing the amount credited to the Client for the Deposit. The Client agrees to exclusively bear all correspondent fees and other fees charged or deducted by the sending financial institution or any intermediary/correspondent bank, whether one is designated or not, other than the Deposit Fees. To the extent the sending financial institution applied any tax withholding to the Deposit amount or the Company reasonably determines that it is required by law to apply a tax withholding to the Deposit, the Company shall not be liable for any amount withheld and the Client will be credited only the net amount actually received, less any tax withholding. To the extent any Company Fees in the Fee Schedule apply to the Service of receiving a Deposit, the Company may immediately deduct such Fees from the amount of the Deposit, provided such fee deduction is disclosed in the Transaction Confirmation or otherwise communicated in writing to the Client.

13. Release from Requisite Consent. Client understands that Company is not responsible to identify duplicate or erroneous deposits by sending banks, and is not liable for taking action on the deposit pursuant to an Instruction by Client, including without limitation Standing Instructions or Outstanding Instructions.

14. Blocked Deposits. The Client shall indemnify and hold the Company harmless for any losses or costs arising from actions taken by regulated financial institutions or the Company to report, freeze, block or otherwise dispose of any Deposit as required to comply with applicable laws and regulations (or court or administrative orders) and internal Written Policies adopted pursuant thereto, all as reasonably understood by the Company. To the extent additional information or documentation is requested by the Company or its partner financial institutions with regard to any Deposit for compliance purposes, as described above, the Client agrees to promptly and diligently provide full and accurate information and documentation to the Company. The Client expressly exempts the Company from any liability for filing in good faith any suspicious activity reports with any governmental financial intelligence unit, law enforcement agency or other competent authority and waives any information privacy rights with respect to the information disclosed in such reports, and Client will not be notified of such disclosure whether before or after the disclosure. The Client shall indemnify and hold the Company harmless for any fine or penalty imposed by any regulatory agency or competent court and incurred by the Company as a result of Company's providing Service to, or processing of a specific Deposit or other transaction for, the Client. This indemnification shall not apply where the Client had no control over the Deposit or the circumstances that resulted in the fine or penalty.

15. Availability and Value Date. Deposits credited by the Company to the Client Account Balance will only be available for disposition by the Client after the later of the following: (1) the funds are made available to the Company by its partner financial institution that received the Deposit, all according to its normal availability policies, or (2) the Deposit is final and the Deposit funds are no longer subject to chargeback under the rules of the payment system through which the Deposit was made. The "value date" applied to the Deposit on the Company's books and records will be the value date applied by the financial partner financial institution that received the Deposit, or, if the Deposit posts on non-Banking Days or after the daily “cutoff” published by the Company on its Website, Deposit Instructions or other written policies and guidelines, the following Banking Day. In the event the Company releases any Deposit funds or the proceeds thereof before the foregoing, the Client guarantees the finality of the funds. Furthermore, in the event of a return, recall or chargeback of all or any portion of the Deposit funds, whether provisional or final, for any reason whatsoever, whether the Deposit was from Client or from a Registered Account third party sender, if after deducting the Deposit to be returned the available Client Account Balance would be negative (the “Uncovered Withdrawal”), the Client shall make a Deposit of its own final funds in the full amount and currency of the Uncovered Withdrawal by no later than the end of the Next Banking Day following the date the notice of such Uncovered Withdrawal and demand for Deposit are sent to the Client by the Company. The Client’s obligation to Deposit its own funds in the case of a chargeback holds true even in the event of a sending or receiving financial institution misleading or erroneous report to the Company of the existence or finality of the Deposit or an erroneous duplicate credit for the same Deposit, communicated by the Company to the Client, unless the Company negligently fails to correct the error within two Business Days (as defined in Acceptance of Instruction (Section on Instructions)) of its discovery. If the Company is solely responsible for the foregoing erroneous communication to the Client, the Client will indemnify and hold the Company harmless if it negligently failed to act diligently on the correction notice and such negligence contributed to the ultimate loss or failure to recover the loss. Without limiting the foregoing, the Client shall indemnify and hold the Company harmless from any and all liability, claims, damages, fees, charges, penalties, interest and costs, including foreign exchange losses and all reasonable fees incurred by the Company resulting from the return or chargeback, in addition to any applicable Fees detailed in the Fee Schedule. If the Client fails to timely make the aforementioned required Deposit, the Client shall also be liable for any consequential damages and indirect losses suffered by the Company as a result of the Client’s failure to timely make such Deposit.

16. Deposit and Standing Instructions. Client authorizes the Company to automatically execute any validly authorized standing Instruction in effect and applicable to a Deposit. In addition, the Company may apply, in any order or priority it sees fit in its sole discretion, all or any part of the Deposit to settle any Outstanding Instruction or other unsettled order(s) regardless of whether the Client expressly requested or otherwise allocated the Deposit to such order(s) or to any other order(s). the Company may or may not suspend any Standing Instruction that would otherwise apply to the Deposit, as it sees fit. Furthermore, once a Deposit is applied by the Company to settle a Transaction, the Company will not be obligated to honor Client’s request to apply the Deposit to settle another Transaction in its place.

17. Customer Relationship. The Client acknowledges that neither the Company nor any Third-Party Payment Processors shall have any duty to any Payor(s) and that no contractual or fiduciary relationship shall be created between them by virtue of, or with regards to, any Deposit; and the Client shall not make any contrary representation to its Payor(s). Furthermore, the Client acknowledges and agrees that when its Payor(s) make a Deposit to the Client’s Account in accordance with the Deposit Instructions issued to them, regardless of whether the beneficiary account name designated in the Deposit Instructions is the Client or the Company: (1) the Company is receiving and holding the Deposit funds as agent of the Client exclusively, (2) the Client will be in constructive possession and receipt of the funds and (3) the Payor shall be deemed to have delivered the funds directly to the Client and the Client shall credit them for the same, subject to any chargeback risk associated with funds that are not final. In the event that, for the convenience of the Client, the Company delivers to the Payor(s) invoices or Deposit Instructions on behalf of the Client and/or independent Transaction Confirmation copies of Deposits or enables them to register as a limited user on the Online Payment System for the purpose of self-registering its identification and bank account details or otherwise sharing with the Client and the Company information and/or documents necessary to approve Deposits from such Payor, this shall not be construed as contradicting the terms of this paragraph or creating any privity of contract with the Payor. Any inquiries and communication with the Company regarding Deposits must be initiated by the Client or its duly authorized Client Representatives and the Company has no duty to respond to direct inquiries and communications from the Client’s Payors, provided that the Company may make available to them via the Online Payment System or otherwise the details of any Deposits from them processed by the Company on behalf of the Client. The Client agrees to promptly deliver his Payor receipts, valid for legal, accounting and tax purposes, for each final

Deposit. In the event the Client fails and refuses to deliver such receipts for any reason other than a chargeback/return of the Deposit funds, the Client hereby appoints and authorizes the Company and the Third-Party Payment Processor as its attorney in fact to issue such receipts in its name, place and stead.

18. Underlying Transactions. The Client represents and warrants that it has in force all of the licenses to engage in the business, and enter into the transactions, underlying the Deposits from Payors and that the transactions with the Payors and related payments do not violate, and the Company's Services are not being used by the Client or Payor to circumvent, any applicable law of any country or conceal transaction from law enforcement agencies, including without limitation any laws requiring tax withholding on the Deposits from the Payors, whether such withholding obligation applies to the Payors or the Client, or VAT or sales tax collection on the underlying transaction.

Section 5: Holding Funds

1. Legal Status of Funds and Company's Legal Capacity. Any Deposits and Client Account Balances held by the Company or its affiliates in connection with the Services and any Client funds, that come into the Company's possession or the possession of the Company's accounts at its partner financial institutions and agents are being held directly by Clearshift, solely in the legal fiduciary capacity of custodian on behalf of the Client, all in accordance with these Terms and Conditions.

2. Pooled Funds Segregated. In connection with the Company's custodial duties in accordance with the previous subsection, the Company will maintain the Client Account Balance or the equivalent value thereof separately from its corporate funds, directly or through any fiduciary which the Company will engage for the purpose of this subsection and the previous subsection. The Company will not use Client Account Balances, or represent to any third party their availability, to cover its operational expenses or for any other corporate purpose, and will not willfully make the funds available to its creditors (other than its Clients) in the event of bankruptcy, or for any other purpose. The Client hereby consents that the Company may deposit and hold the Client Account Balance commingled and pooled with the funds of other clients in the same specially designated account/s in its name or in the name of its fiduciaries, the Customer Funds Trustee (as defined in Trustee Immunity and Non-Recourse below) or one the Company's regulated affiliates at one or more regulated financial institutions ("Pooled Segregation Account"), provided the Company will disclose and, to the extent possible, register with the financial institution the nature of the funds in these accounts. Therefore, the segregation between the Client's funds and other clients' funds will be on the basis of the Company's ledgers and not on the basis of registration on the banks' records. The Client acknowledges that the Company is not a guarantor of any financial institution and the Company is inherently subject to the credit, currency and counterparty risk of its partner financial institutions utilized to provide the Service and the sovereign bodies that regulate those financial institutions and currencies. As such, the Client, along with other Company clients pari passu, will bear the risks associated with maintaining funds at financial institutions in one or more currencies (including without limitation, risk of financial institution failure, risks of fluctuations, and risk of devaluations or other government action against a currency or deposits), without any right of indemnification by the Company for its conduct, acts commissions that do not rise to the level of recklessness. All funds in the Pooled Segregation Account may be pledged and/or transferred to a Pooled Segregation Account held by the Customer Funds Trustee appointed by the Company for the benefit of the clients for the purpose of segregating and protecting client funds or as required by law, in furtherance of the purposes of this subsection. Notwithstanding the foregoing, to the extent of any open Client "haircut"/margin requirements, the Company may pledge and/or transfer the Client Account Balance to any financial institution to cover "haircut"/margin collateral requirements arising fully or partially from the Client's unsettled Forward Contracts and other margin-bearing open positions.

3. Pooled Funds Segregation Investment Policy. Company may hold the funds in cash deposits or short-term certificates of deposit, repos, swaps or other derivative contracts or money market accounts, all in any currency that the Company and its Clients transact in, and/or may enjoy a reduction in the fees or expenses which it will be charged with respect to the banking services charged by the banks in which they are held, all at the discretion of the Company and in accordance with any limitations of applicable law. Any income or benefit from the foregoing asset holdings will inure exclusively to the Company and the Client waives any and all claims to any portion thereof.

4. Non-Payment of Interest. The Client confirms and consents that the Client is not entitled to receive any interest or equivalent time-based compensation from the Company with respect to any funds held by the Company. Additionally, in any event of delay or refusal by Company to transfer funds, whether by fault of the Company or not, the Company will not be liable for any loss of interest earned by, or actual interest charged to, the Client in the interim, which will be considered consequential damages for which the Company is not liable.

5. Trustee Immunity and Non-Recourse. The Company may appoint, and transfer custody of client funds to, a trustee appointed to hold all or any portion of client funds for all or any portion of the Company's clients, whether required by applicable law or not, for the benefit of the clients for the purpose of segregating and protecting client funds or as required by law ("Customer Funds Trustee"). The Client acknowledges that, in the absence of a separate agreement with a Customer Funds Trustee, the Customer Funds Trustee, if any, is not a party to and is not subject to any agreement between the Company and the Client and that the Client is not a party or a beneficiary of any agreement between the Company and the Customer Funds Trustee. The Client waives any right to bring any direct claim against the Customer Funds Trustee on the basis of the Customer Funds Trustee's agreement with the Company or any actions or omissions of the Customer Funds Trustee pursuant thereto. The foregoing waiver shall be effective notwithstanding any i) reports, ledgers or other information the Company shares with the Customer Funds Trustee, ii) any processing of Client inquiries or claims against the Company, iii) any affirmation to the Client regarding the Pooled Segregation Account or the role of the Customer Funds Trustee with regards any Client funds held by the Customer Funds Trustee iv) or any written or oral statement of the Company or its employees and agents to the contrary.

6. Holding Balances. Subject to the Company's right to limit, condition or restrict at any time, Deposit funds may be maintained in the Client Account Balance for legitimate commercial purposes only. The Client agrees to file disclosure filings in a timely fashion and generally comply with applicable tax reporting and payment obligations in each of the tax jurisdictions which Client is subject to, and to provide proof and/or certification of such filing or compliance upon request from the Company. At any time after 30 days from the last date of a compliance or other information inquiry by the Company to the Client regarding a Deposit or the Client Account Balance or activity for any reason whatsoever, if the Company is unsuccessful in establishing communicating with the Client, the Company may refuse to continue to hold a Client Account Balance and notify the Client that, unless a valid Instruction regarding the disposition of the Deposit is received within two (2) Banking Days it will make a Deposit Return or otherwise transfer all or of any portion of the value of the Deposit or the Client Account Balances , after conversion to domestic currency at the appropriate next daily official or independent reference rate(s), to the default Client bank account registered with the Company.

7. Settlement Against Client Account Balance. Additionally, for the purpose of executing an Instruction by the Client or collecting any Fee, the Company is entitled to debit and offset from the Pooled Segregation Account sums registered as Client Account Balance for the purpose of exchanging and/or transferring them in accordance with the Instruction or settling the Fee. The use of the Client Account Balance and/or execution of an Instruction will not be construed as a waiver on the part of the Company and/or as receipt of an exemption by the Client in connection with any sum owed to the Company by the Client under these Terms and Conditions.

Section 6: Direct Debits

1. Direct Debit Deposits. Any credit to Client Account Balance resulting from a direct debit deposit will be subject to, and may be unavailable to the Client until, the expiration of any period during which the direct debit may be returned by the Company's partner financial institution or payment system for either insufficient funds or incorrect account data. The Company reserves the right to manage the risk of such returns as it sees fit from time to time and no course of conduct to waive this subsection or make funds available earlier than stated in this subsection will create a right for the Client for similar treatment of future transactions, whether similar or not.

2. Debiting Client Accounts. If the Company approves a Direct Debit Authorization, the Client authorizes the Company to debit its bank account, and to transfer funds from its bank account to the Pooled Segregation Account, in accordance with an Instruction which it will provide to the Company, from time to time, or for the purpose of settling any Instruction. Any debit authorization for a bank account is a valid authorization for all of the available methods for debiting such an account, whether by check truncation, check21 printing and scanning, and/or direct debit to the relevant financial institution or payment system. Any debit that fails or returns, may be resubmitted by the Company one or more times without requiring new consent and authorization of the Client.

3. Authorization. Direct debits to the Client's bank account will only be made in accordance with a direct debit mandate (hereinafter: the "Direct Debit Authorization"), either signed in the original or signed by the Client by means of an electronic signature. The Client agrees and confirms that the Company is authorized to credit the Client's account from time to time in the event that credit adjustments become necessary. The Client authorizes the Company to communicate with the Client's bank as necessary to effectuate the Services contemplated in these Terms and Conditions.

4. Cancelation. Notwithstanding the contents of any Direct Debit Authorization, the Client will be entitled to cancel a debit Instruction made in accordance with any Direct Debit Authorization, or any specific debit for execution pursuant to any Direct Debit Authorization, only if the Client ensures not later than a minimum of seven (7) days prior to the scheduled debit date, the cumulative fulfillment of all the following conditions: (a) the Client has provided adequate notice to the bank designated in the Direct Debit Authorization as well as written notice of such to the Company, and (b) the Client has requested specific cancelation of any Transaction in respect of which the debit was to be performed under these Terms and Conditions. This subsection shall prevail over any other term specified in the Direct Debit Authorization.

5. Changes in the Client's Bank Account Details. The Client will provide prompt written notice to the Company in the event of cancellation of the Direct Debit Authorization or of changes to the details of the account at its bank designated in any Direct Debit Authorization.

6. Adjustments. If as a result of an error or omission caused by the Company, the Company incorrectly debits the Client's bank account in an amount that exceeds the value of the Settlement Amount actually due, the Company shall return to the Client the over-debited amount (i.e. the difference between the amount debited and the Settlement Amount actually due), to the bank account designated in the Direct Debit Authorization. The return of over-debited funds by the Company shall be made within five (5) Business Days (as defined in Acceptance of Instruction (Section on Instructions)) of the Company's receiving written notice of such. Return of the over-debit amount will be the Client's sole and exclusive remedy for any such error or omission. At any time, if as a result of an error or omission caused by the Company, the Company incorrectly debits the Client's bank account in an amount that is less than the value of the Settlement Amount actually due, the Company will have the right to initiate additional debits from the Client's bank account for the additional funds owed by the Client to the Company.

7. Chargeback. If the Company approves a Direct Debit Authorization, the Client agrees that he will only exercise his chargeback right through his financial institution, if: (a) The Company breaches these Terms and Conditions; or (b), there was an unauthorized use of Client's Access Method or property, meaning that Client, or any other Authorized Representative, did not authorize the Instruction initiating a debit (this condition does not limit what is stated in Authorized Representatives (Section on Instructions) and elsewhere in these Terms and Conditions). The Client agrees he will not exercise his chargeback right for any other reason, including without limitation any reason related to a Payment Counterparty and the Client's dealings with them or any mistake on the part of the Client. If the Company needs to investigate or take any actions in connection with a chargeback caused by or related to Client, the Company may charge the Client a penalty in an amount specified in the Fee Schedule, and may deduct this amount from the Client's Account Balance, and/or limit the Client's access to the Company's Services until the investigation is complete. The Client is not relieved from any liability for a Transaction or Instruction by exercising a chargeback, and will indemnify and hold the Company harmless for any loss suffered or incurred by the Company and arising from Client's chargeback, whether or not within the control of the Client.

Section 7: Using the Online Payment System

1. Use and Acceptability of the Online Payment System. The Client may use the Online Payment System for the purpose of obtaining the Services, including for the purpose of sending or receiving global payments, or buying or selling domestic or foreign currency subject to any restrictions or limitations imposed by the Company. The Client confirms that he was offered training and technical support with regard to the Online Payment System and is aware that he may contact the Company's customer support desk with any questions regarding the operation and the security of Online Payment System. The Client will indemnify and hold the Company harmless for any loss arising from misreading, incorrectly applying, or in any way miscomprehending the Online Payment System's user interface.

2. User License. The Company hereby grants to the Client, for so long as these Terms and Conditions remain in effect, a non-exclusive, non-transferable, non-sublicensable license (excluding use by the Client Representatives) to use the Online Payment System for the sole purpose of facilitating the Client's use of the Services in accordance with these Terms and Conditions and with any Terms of Use and/or Privacy Policy, published on the Company Website. The Client will ensure that access to the Online Payment System is restricted to the Client Representatives only, and any other use of the Online Payment System by the Client's or by a Client Representative's employees, or by anyone else operating on their behalf, will constitute breach of the license terms by the Client.

3. The Company's Intellectual Property Rights and the Online Payment System. The Client agrees that the Online Payment System and all of the Company web-pages, including its design, information, contents, data, programs, applications, interfaces, API definitions, bulk payment file formats, templates, forms, computer code, publications, diagrams, photographs, and graphic, audio, visual, video files, as well as service marks, trademarks, Services and final products produced by the Company, or by any entity operating on its behalf, in order to perform the Services, including, without being limited to, reports, compilations and databases in any and all media (collectively, "Company's IP") are and shall remain the exclusive property of the Company and are protected by intellectual property laws locally and internationally. The Client agrees that it will not take any action which may harm the Company's rights thereto, including by copying, broadcasting, distributing, photocopying, duplicating, advertising, presenting in public or changing the intellectual property, in whole or in part, whether with or without consideration, all pursuant and subject to the provisions of law, whether express or implied, except to the extent expressly contemplated in these Terms and Conditions. The Client shall not distribute, disclose, or sell the Company IP or Online Payment System to, or permit use of the Online Payment System or Company IP by, any third party whether in whole or in part without the express written consent of the Company. The Client shall not, directly or indirectly, copy, modify, decompile, disassemble, reverse engineer or otherwise attempt to derive or discern the source code or internal workings of the Online Payment System. As part of the foregoing, the Client may not: (i) reproduce any part of the Online Payment System or Company IP in any form; (ii) create any derivative work based thereon; (iii) incorporate the site into other websites, electronic retrieval systems, publications or otherwise, or (iv) disclose the Online Payment System to, or permit use of the Online Payment System by, any third party. Provided that the Client is in compliance with these Terms and Conditions, the Client is permitted to view, use, and download a single copy of any web-page (excluding applications, processes or systems) and to use reports, compilations or databases for its own internal business, recordkeeping and accounting purposes.

4. Abuse of Company's System. The Client must not interfere, disrupt, or attempt to interfere or gain unauthorized access to the Company's websites, software, API, systems, or other users' use of the Company's services; use any device, software, or routine to bypass the Company's robot exclusion mechanisms; take any action that imposes an unreasonable or disproportionately large load on the Company's websites, software, systems, or networks; introduce viruses, trojans, worms, logic bombs, or other malicious or technologically harmful materials; or use any robot, spider, other automatic device, or manual process to monitor or copy the Company's websites without the Company's prior written permission.

5. Online Payment System Security. The Company may issue or define an Access Method for the Client, in accordance with the type of Services sought by the Client, and the Client agrees to act with reasonable caution and exercise prudent and proper care in securing the Access Methods and associated devices. The Client agrees that the Access Method will only be used by the Client Representatives and only at authorized location(s).

6. Essential Security Measures. The Client is aware that the Company is inherently limited in its ability to detect fraud and understands that any inattention to, or mishandling of, Client's devices and Access Methods puts the Client at risk of fraud. Any conduct by the Client falling short of the following norms and cautionary practices will be deemed gross negligence by the Client, and a breach of their obligation to exercise prudent and reasonable care with respect to their Access Methods and devices:

i) The Client and their Representatives will entrust their passwords and equivalent Access Methods only to highly secure password management providers that mandate two-factor authentication, AND have an ISO 27001 certification or equivalent certification in force, AND enforce strong password requirements, AND employ hashing or encryption mechanisms to safeguard passwords.

ii) The Client and their Representatives will carefully secure and control access to any account held with a password management provider to which they have entrusted their Access Methods, including without limiting, by setting a password that satisfies strong password requirements and is difficult to discover or decipher.

iii) Exclusive of a highly secure password manager, as outlined above, in no circumstance whatsoever will the Client or their Representatives copy or share their Access Methods with any other individual or entity, nor will they engage in any behavior that could in any manner disclose these Access Methods to any other individual or entity, or engage in any behavior that could provide opportunity for the Access Method to be copied or unveiled by another individual or entity.

iv) The Client and its Representatives will only use a password manager's website after ensuring that their connection is a secure HTTPS connection, and after confirming the presence of whatever security indicators their browser might offer, and after confirming that the website server is not compromised.

v) The Client and their Representatives will exercise caution when considering software and browser extensions, refraining from their installation and use unless they have diligently ascertained their security and confirmed absence of malicious software.

vi) The Client understands that devices used to perform multi-factor authentication for the Client or its Representatives (e.g., through SMS or specialized apps) can be exploited for fraud. The Client and its Representatives must take care to secure such devices, physically and digitally, with utmost diligence, including without limitation, by setting a lock-screen password and ensuring the device is not left unattended and unlocked.

vii) The Client and their Representatives will carefully follow all security instructions furnished to them by the Company, whether upon receipt of the Access Methods or as updated from time to time.

viii) The Client and their Representatives will never use the Company's Services or property when intoxicated, under the influence of substances or emotionally disturbed or distressed.

ix) The Client and their Representatives will always ensure when entering or revealing their Access Methods digitally that they are using the Company's real and official website or app. Likewise, the Client and its Representatives will always ensure when contacting or being contacted by the Company that they are communicating with a true representative of the Company.

x) The Client and their Representatives will never grant another individual remote control of their devices if there is any possibility whatsoever that such control may lead to the compromise of the Client's or their Representatives' device(s) or Access Methods.

All the above being provided without limiting other presumptively critical and/or conventional measures and cautions not stated in the foregoing, and without limiting other instances of negligence not expressly covered in the foregoing. For the avoidance of doubt, the Company disclaims any responsibility for loss arising from exploitation of the Client or their counterparties by a deceptive façade imitating the Company Website, Online Payment System, app, Deposit Instructions or other property of the Company, including without limitation "phishing" attacks and the like, regardless of whether or not the Client acted diligently.

Section 7: Using the Online Payment System

7. Security Sufficiency. The Client acknowledges and agrees that the security mechanisms and procedures employed by the Company are satisfactory and are a commercially reasonable method of providing security against unauthorized Instructions and other misuse of the Online Payment System.

8. Compromise of the Client Access Methods. The Client shall notify the Company immediately in the event of any suspected theft, loss, misappropriation or penetration of the Client Access Methods or devices employed for multi-factor authentication, or any changes, additions or deletions of a Client Representative's or their authority to act on behalf of the Client. Notice must be clear, detailed and coherent, and served in writing to the Company's customer support center, whose contact details are provided on the Company's Website; anything short of the foregoing will not be deemed notice. Notwithstanding such notification, the Client accepts responsibility for all acts or omissions involving unauthorized use of the Online Payment System through the Client Access Methods and agrees to be bound by the terms of all online Transactions executed and orders placed and Instructions submitted through the Online Payment System using the Client Access Methods prior to Company's receipt and acknowledgment of the notification.

9. Acceptance and Processing of Instruction Files. Subject to the Company's advance approval, at the Client's request, the Company will accept for processing multiple Instructions delivered in a file format, and will notify the Client of any issues relating to the format or receipt of any such file. Client agrees that uploading the file according to the Company's instructions or through the Online Payment System constitutes sufficient authorization to execute the Instructions in the file, regardless of any additional approvals or verifications that Company may in its sole discretion require or waive from time to time. The Client agrees to ensure that all files transmitted to the Company correspond to the file specifications to be mutually agreed by the Company and the Client. The Company shall not be responsible for any delays caused by a file that deviates from the agreed upon formats. The Client acknowledges that the Company is not required to and has not agreed do any validation checking on the data in the files, the validity of which is the sole responsibility of the Client. In the event one or more of the Instructions in the file are rejected by the Company and its systems for whatever reason, the Company reserves the right, in its sole discretion, to execute any of the other Instructions in the file, make technical corrections to the invalid Instructions or reject the entire file, provided the Company shall promptly notify Client the details of the Instructions that were and were not executed. The Client agrees to be solely responsible for resubmitting any file that has been rejected by the Company. The Company will not be liable for any loss, costs, damages or expenses incurred in connection with any delay in, or failure to act on any Instruction in connection with rejected Instruction files.

10. Third Party Materials. The Company's websites, apps, or API functionality may incorporate or provide access or references to third party materials, including via links. The Company neither controls nor endorses these third parties nor their materials, and it assumes no responsibility for their accuracy, validity, timeliness, completeness, reliability, integrity, quality, legality, usefulness, or safety, nor for any associated intellectual property rights. Some third party materials may be inaccurate, misleading, or deceptive, and these Terms and Conditions do not constitute a representation or warranty concerning them. The Company is under no obligation to monitor third party materials and reserves the right to block or disable access to them, either partially or entirely, through the Website, App, or API at its discretion. Moreover, the presence of third-party references or materials on the Website, App, or API does not imply any endorsement or affiliation with the third party provider, nor does it create any legal relationship between the Client and any such third party. The Client's use of third-party materials or business transaction with such third parties is undertaken at their own risk and may be subject to additional terms, conditions, and policies applicable to those materials, such as the terms of service or privacy policies provided by such third-parties.

Section 8: Fees

1. Disclosure and Update of Fees. The Company will charge Client the Fees for its Services and/or for any use of its property, including without limitation, purchase of currency acceptance of Deposits and execution of payment through its Services, all according to the rates, minimums, maximums and other terms as disclosed to Client in advance and available (1) in any Fee Schedule provided to the Client, (2) on the Company's Website and (3) upon request from the support desk. The Client acknowledges and accepts that in the regular course of its business the Company will, at its sole discretion from time to time, apply new Fees for existing or new Services and modify the terms of, or waive existing Fees, including penalties for various breaches of these Terms and Conditions or failed Transactions. The Company may give advance notice through any communication medium of changes to the Fee Schedule applicable to the Client (or all clients), but the change going into effect and binding the Client and the Company is not dependent upon the delivery or receipt or acceptance or any other action by Client with regard to such update notice. It is the Client's sole responsibility to familiarize himself with the Company's Fees scheme applicable to its Instruction(s) by reviewing the Fee Schedule and contacting the support desk in the event of any uncertainty.

2. Fees Due and Payable and Fee Collection. The Fees for Service are due when the Service request is non-cancellable pursuant to these Terms and Conditions and are payable at the earlier of (1) the time the Settlement Amount is payable, (2) the completion of the Service or (3) the time agreed upon between the Client and the Company or specified in the Instruction confirmation. The Fees may be actually debited from the Client Account Balance in the currency of Transaction, including either the currency sold or the currency purchased in a currency conversion Transaction or in the Client's Account base currency based on its home country. In the event the Client lacks sufficient available Account Balance in the currency debited for the Fees, the Company may at any time unilaterally convert and purchase from the available Client Account Balances in any other currency, at the Company's choosing, sufficient amounts in the Fee currency to cover the deficit, converted at the standard currency conversion rates used by the Company on that date for currency conversion Transactions. The Company may in its discretion delay, cancel or reverse any Instruction, and any Transaction resulting therefrom, if all or any portion of the Fees due for the Instruction have neither been settled nor adequate arrangements for settlement of the Fee, approved by the Company, have been made by the Client. Invoices or receipts for Fees paid will be issued only to the Client, in the name of the person registered as owner or Account Beneficiary (for Trust Accounts) of the Account on the records of the Company, regardless of whether the Client passes on the cost of the Fee to its Payment Counterparties pursuant to the Instructions. Client acknowledges that the responsibility and obligations to properly invoice and document such Fees ultimately passed on and borne by their Payment Counterparties are the sole responsibility of the Client. To the extent agreed upon in writing by the Client and the Company, the Fees for a specific Account may be designated by the Client, with the consent of another client, to be debited from the Account Balance of such other client or Account, with the invoices or receipts to be issued to such paying party, provided that such an arrangement does not relieve the Client for its ultimate liability to settle its Fees in full.

3. Fee Liability for Failed Transactions. The Client will be liable for settlement of applicable Fees of a transaction, regardless of whether the funds were actually received by the Payee, or the transaction was rejected or temporarily held back by the receiving financial institution or any intermediary financial institution or payment system. Furthermore, such a rejection or hold back will not exempt or reduce the Client's liability for separate Fees applicable to any subsequent transactions undertaken by the Company to rectify or resend the rejected or failed transaction.

4. Fee Invoice Arrangement.

(A) As an alternative to debiting Fees when payable directly from the Client Account Balance, the Company may approve, at its discretion, a "Fee Invoice Arrangement", pursuant to which Fees will accrue during each billing period and be presented to Client for payment at the end of each billing period. The billing period, the settlement instructions, the billing party and other specific details and additional terms related to this arrangement will be furnished and agreed upon in writing in a Fee Invoice Arrangement agreement signed by the parties.

(B) The existence of a Fee Invoice Arrangement: (i) is not a credit line and does not affect in any way the Client's obligations and liabilities for timely and proper settlement of all other elements of the Settlement Amount; (ii) does not exempt the Client from the obligation to pay any and all Fees; (iii) does not restrict the Company's ability to collect Fees, including without limitation by offsetting liabilities and debiting the Client Account Balance; (iv) does not alter the terms and conditions governing Fee calculation and accrual; all as stipulated in these Terms and Conditions. (C) Without derogating from subparagraph (B) above, by the terms of a Fee Invoice Arrangement, Fees will not be payable at the time outlined in this section and the Company will not delay, cancel or reverse Instructions in the event Fees due have not been settled according to the terms outlined in this section. Instead, Fees will be payable upon the expiration of the time interval specified in the Fee Invoice Arrangement. Thereafter, if the settlement in full of the Fees have not been completed, the Company reserves the right, in its sole discretion to deny any all requests for Services by the Client and/or delay, cancel or reverse any Outstanding Instruction and any Transaction resulting therefrom. The Company will further specify that the Client has the right to terminate the Terms and Conditions immediately and without charge before the Effective Date.

 - (iii) Any Amendment so conveyed to the Client shall become effective on the Effective Date and the Client will be deemed to have agreed to the Amendments without the need for any formal signature or consent unless the Client notifies the Company in writing before the Effective Date that it does not agree to the Amendment.
 - (iv) Any change, modification, amendment or addition to these Terms and Conditions or the Fee Schedule proposed by the Client shall not be binding on the Company unless set forth in a written Addendum signed by the Client and the Company.
 - (v) Notwithstanding the foregoing, any Amendment by the Company to the conversion rates and/or to the Fee Schedule and/or to any other rate will be binding on all parties effective immediately following publication on the Website or transmission by e-mail to the Client under the terms of Disclosure and Update of Fees (Section on Fees) above.
4. Historical Transaction Data Research Costs. Pursuant to the provisions of the law, the Company will honor any reasonable Client request for copies or reports of historical Transactions or other similar information not readily available through the Online Payment System. The Client will bear all costs associated therewith, including payment for any hourly work associated with the inquiry research and report compilation, according to the hourly rate published on the Website or otherwise communicated by the Company to the Client in response to the request.
5. Entire Terms and Conditions. These Terms and Conditions, including any Addendum thereto and the Fee Schedule, and including any Amendments, shall constitute the entire agreement between the parties concerning the subject matter hereof, and the Terms and Conditions supersede all prior oral or written agreements between the parties concerning the subject matter hereof.

Section 13: Miscellaneous

6. Contradicting Representations and Separate Agreements. In the event of any conflict between these Terms and Conditions and any other representation or statement made by the Client or the Company or its employees or agents with respect to the Client's account or the Company's Services, these Terms and Conditions shall prevail. However, if the Client and the Company have entered into a separate, signed written agreement with respect to any other service or product offered by the Company or the Client, such separate agreement shall prevail over these Terms and Conditions in the event of any conflict concerning such additional service or product.

7. "Heter Iska" (Interest Exemption Arrangement Under Jewish Law). All subsections pertaining to "interest" in these Terms and Conditions are provided pursuant to a Heter Iska located in the Company's offices, a copy of which is available for review on the Website or upon request from the support desk. Furthermore, the Client warrants that all loans or loan repayments made via the Company's Services that would otherwise violate Jewish Law prohibitions on interest (aka "Ribbit") are subject to the terms of a valid Heter Iska restructuring and will provide evidence thereof upon request. The Client agrees that the Company may refuse or reject any Deposit or Instruction that fails to comply with this subsection.

8. Dormant Account. The Client's account may be suspended or otherwise designated by the Company as inactive if no use is made of the Services by the Client for a period of one year, without requiring any notice of such action by the Company to the Client. Should the Client wish to submit an Instruction in a suspended or inactive Account, the Client will be required to first refresh certain customer identification compliance information in line with the Company's Written Policies in force at that time.

9. Termination and Survival. These Terms and Conditions will remain in force until such time as terminated in accordance with this subsection. Except to the extent expressly limited in any Addendum hereto, the Client may initiate the closure of their Account and termination of these Terms and Conditions with or without cause at any time upon providing written notice to the Company, which the Company will acknowledge with a notice of any outstanding obligations of the Client to the Company, including with respect to any Outstanding Instructions, or obligations of the Company to the Client, including any Client Account Balances. Termination for any reason, including any purported breach of these Terms and Conditions by the Company, will not affect the Client's obligation to pay any debt amount or other outstanding or accrued liabilities owed to the Company at the time of termination. The Company may initiate the closure of the Client's Account and termination of these Terms and Conditions by 60 days advance written notice to the Client (unless a shorter period is allowed by law), which need not include any explanation of the reasons for termination, or, immediately by written notice, in the case of a breach by the Client (including without limitation, a breach pursuant to the Section on Settlement) that is detailed in the written notice. These Terms and Conditions will remain in effect until the parties have each fulfilled their outstanding obligations hereunder, including without limitation with respect to any outstanding dispute resolution process or compliance inquiry. Thereafter, the provisions in these Terms and Conditions relating to the Online Payment System restrictions and security in Section on Using the Online Payment System, settlement in Section on Settlement reimbursement and obligations in all of Section on Services, Section on Limitations of Liability and Section on Additional Terms, shall survive completion of the Company's Services to the Client and termination of the contractual arrangement between the Client and the Company under these Terms and Conditions. Client's request for termination of these Terms and Conditions, as above, will be deemed a blanket request and consent to cancel all Outstanding Instructions, including without limitation any Outstanding Instructions or Transactions that are not yet due for settlement, and the Company may in its sole discretion apply to them its written procedures for handling breaches or repudiations by the Client of Instructions or transactions, all in accordance with these Terms and Conditions. The Client acknowledges that the processing of such cancellations may require some time, and they will hold the Company harmless for any Instruction that is executed or Deposit accepted by the Company in good faith after the termination due to any delay or failure on the part of the Company in promptly completing the Account closure process.

10. Publicity and Marketing Collateral. Neither Party may use the other Party's name in news releases, articles, brochures, marketing materials, advertisements and other publicity or investor promotions without the written consent of the other Party, provided the Parties consent to disclosure via oral communication to a potential client that they carry on a business relationship related to the Services. Any marketing collateral or illustrative materials on the Website or elsewhere which include any foreign currency exchange rate will not constitute an offer to buy/sell foreign currency, and is provided for indication purposes only.

11. Severability. If for any reason a court or arbitrator finds any provision of these Terms and Conditions, or portion thereof, to be unenforceable, that provision shall be enforced to the maximum extent permissible so as to give effect to the intent of the Parties, and the remainder of these Terms and Conditions shall continue in full force and effect. To the fullest extent a waiver is permitted by law, the Client and the Company waive any right provided by any provision of law that conflicts with these Terms and Conditions and. If such waiver is not permitted by law, the Client and the Company agree that such provision of these Terms and Conditions will be interpreted in a manner that renders it enforceable to the maximum extent permissible so as to give effect to the intent of the parties and the remainder of these Terms and Conditions shall continue in full force and effect.

12. Course of Conduct not a Waiver. Any failure by either Party to require strict performance by the other of any provision of these Terms and Conditions shall not constitute a waiver of such provision or of any right arising by force thereof, nor thereafter affect that Party's full rights to require strict performance. Similarly, any actions taken by the Company on an ex gratia basis shall not create a binding precedent for the Company in future situations. This applies irrespective of whether the Client has come to rely on such actions, whether the Client was aware that such actions were undertaken ex gratia, and whether any notice was provided regarding the termination of such ex gratia actions.

13. Notices. Unless explicitly stated otherwise for the purpose of certain subsections or provisions, communications and notices required or permitted under these Terms and Conditions shall be deemed delivered: (a) If from the Client to the Company, when actually received by the Company if sent by fax or email or secure internal message via the Website or Online Payment System to the support desk designated contact details on the Website, provided that if received less than two hours before the posted closing business hours, the notice will be deemed received on the next Business Day (as defined in Acceptance of Instruction (Section on Instructions)). (b) If from the Company to the Client, any e-mail or other "push" electronic real-time messenger notification by any of the foregoing that a new message was posted on the Online Payment System for the Client to view, for which the Company did not receive notice of failed delivery, will be deemed received by the Client immediately after being sent, and Client agrees that Company's electronic records and audit histories and logs kept in the ordinary course of its business are evidence of the notice by the Company, regardless of whether the Client actually read or received the notice.

(c) Any Party may change its address for purposes of receiving notices by giving notice in the manner prescribed above. The Client agrees to promptly update and advise the Company of any changes in its contact details, including its business address. The Client hereby agrees that the Company may "serve" paper legal documents, including service of legal process, at the last address provided to the Company or, for a legal entity, to the current registered address with the governmental authority charged with maintaining corporate registries, and that such service shall be effective.

14. Assignment. The Client may not transfer or assign its rights or obligations under these Terms and Conditions without the Company's prior written consent. The Company shall have the right to transfer or assign its rights under these Terms and Conditions to any assignee, which will then carry the primary liability to the Client for the Company's obligations hereunder. These Terms and Conditions shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the Parties and their permitted successors and assigns.

15. Additional Breaches. In addition to everything provided in these Terms and Conditions on the matter, the following behavior and actions are prohibited by these Terms and Conditions and will constitute breach of contract: (a) engaging in behavior that is defamatory, libelous, threatening or harassing, or tarnishing Company's name or reputation, including without limitation by publishing unfavorable reviews or feedback about the Company online in a false, misleading, exaggeratory or disproportionate manner or quantity. (b) purposefully refusing or failing to promptly rectify an Account with a negative balance or make any Deposit required to settle a Transaction or (c) opening and/or maintaining an account by the Company in bad faith, including without limitation for the purpose of commercial espionage or to conceal activity from governmental authorities or other persons with a legitimate right to have knowledge of the activity.

16. Third Party Rights. No provision of these Terms and Conditions will constitute a right of any third party that is not an express party to these Terms and Conditions. Specifically, Services provided to the Client acting as a fiduciary for other beneficiaries or clients of the Client or provided to Client's Payment Counterparties shall not create a relationship between them and the Company, and they will have no standing to make a claim against the Company.

17. Death or Incapacitation. If the Company receives notification or has reason to believe that the Client has died or become legally incapacitated, the Company may freeze new activity in, and access to, the Account and take any action it deems reasonably necessary to mitigate any losses resulting from the inability of the Client to complete any Transaction or Outstanding Instruction. Subject to the provisions of applicable law and any valid court orders, the Company may refuse to disclose an information about the Account until has determined to its satisfaction and verified the identity of the Client's receivers, guardians, trustees, heirs, devisees or successors, as appropriate. Until such determination, the Company is under obligations to proactively seek out such persons or next of kin or notify any governmental authority, unless required by applicable law. The Client's estate will be responsible for any tax liability resulting from transfer of the Client's Account Balance to the estate. The Client agrees to hold the Company harmless for any actions the Company takes based on its reasonable belief that the Client has died or become incapacitated.

18. Third Party Service Providers. The Company may, at its sole discretion, use third-party service providers to fulfill some or all of its obligations under these Terms and Conditions, including performing functions that the Client has instructed the Company to perform, such as capturing or processing Instructions and Transactions and handling Account management operations (including account set-up, transaction monitoring and customer support). Each of these third-party service providers may in turn use their own third-party service providers, at the Company's discretion. The Client is aware that information regarding the Account and Transactions, if necessary, may be collected and shared between the Company and any such third-party service providers, and waives any privacy rights to restrict such disclosure.

19. Legal Actions, Liens, Sanctions, etc. against the Client's Account. If the Company or one of its partner financial institutions receives notice from a governmental body, or an agent thereof, with apparent authority and jurisdiction under applicable law over the Company and the Client's Account, of an actual, threatened or potential claim against the Client or the funds held in the Client's Account or any activity in the Account or the legitimacy or Client's legal right to any Deposit, the Company may take any one or more of the following actions, as appropriate in its sole discretion: (a) immediately freeze activity in the Account, including without limitation the execution of any Outstanding Instructions or processing of Deposits received, (b) block the release of all or any Client Deposits Balances until the Company is satisfied that there is no legal claim, (c) require an express court order to act or to accept any Instruction, (d) dispose of the funds as directed by any binding order issued to the Company or as required by force of Company's service agreements with its partner financial institutions, (e) take any other action the Company deems necessary to protect itself from financial or criminal liability arising from Client's activity in their Account or (f) demand information and documents from the Client to clarify the nature and risk of the claims and condition any further action or inaction on obtaining satisfactory clarification. The Client acknowledges that the Company may be restricted by applicable law from disclosing to the Client any or all of the information regarding the existence or nature of the aforementioned claim. The Client will hold the Company harmless for any losses or damages arising from the Company's action or refusal to act pursuant to this subsection.

20. Cross Guarantee Arrangement. The Company may offer the Client, where the Client maintains multiple Accounts with the Company for several affiliated legal entities, the option of establishing a "cross-guarantee arrangement," Pursuant to which the various entities and the Client Account Balances in them are pledged as security to guarantee the transactions and obligations of each other. If agreed to by the Client, the Company's right of offset will apply across all Accounts, and the Company will have the authority, as it deems appropriate, to offset any outstanding debts in one Account against available credit in another Account, including Accounts held under separate legal title.

Section 13: Miscellaneous

21. FAQ Incompleteness. The FAQ (list of frequently asked questions) posted and updated from time to time on the Company's Website serves to provide clients with clear, concise information concerning the Company and its operations and policies. However, the Client understands that the FAQ, by its very nature in order to serve its purpose, may be not up-to-date, imprecise or incomplete, and the Client acknowledges that nothing written in the FAQ is binding on the Company or the Client. If anything about the Company or its operations is unclear, the Client should contact the Company's support or consult these Terms and Conditions before taking financially-consequential action through the Company.

22. Legal Costs. In the event the Company takes action to collect debt or liability incurred by the Client or defend itself in a lawsuit brought by the Client and the Company is the prevailing party, the Client will reimburse the Company for its costs and expenses, including without limitation its actual attorney's fees. The Company may off-set such losses against the Client Account Balances, as outlined in Settlement Using Collateral (Section on Collateral).

Transaction Amount: Relating to a Reference Rate Order, is the fixed amount of currency specified in an Order or Instruction, which may be either the Counter Currency or the Base Currency of the Currency Pair and may be either the specified amount of the currency to purchase (i.e., a Buy Order) or the specified amount of currency to sell (i.e., a Sell Order) and the specified amount may include the Fee(s) to be deducted (i.e., a Gross Order) or be exclusive of the Fee (i.e., a Net Order).

All other capitalized terms shall have the meanings assigned to them in the Terms and Conditions.

1. Rate and Exchanged Amount Fixing. The Company will fix the Actual Rate to a Committed Trade immediately following the publication of the applicable Reference Rate. The Exchanged Amount will be determined by applying the Actual Rate to the Transaction Amount. The Transaction Amount of the actual conversion from/to the Exchanged Amount may be adjusted upwards or downwards depending on the designation of an Order as a Net Order or a Gross Order and the depending on which Currency Pair currency is designated as the currency in which the Fees will be collected.

2. Rate Errors. If the Reference Rate published by the Reference Rate Provider is obviously and significantly erroneous at the time of publication, given the market rate levels before during and after the Calculation Window, the Company shall ignore the published Reference Rate as if it had not been published and shall wait up to end of the next Rate Date until a corrected Reference Rate is published. In any event, if the Reference Rate Provider corrects a previously published erroneous Reference Rate or if the Company erroneously reports or applies the Reference Rate, the Company and the Client agree to promptly adjust and correct the Exchanged Amount of the Reference Rate Order accordingly and promptly deliver/return and settle any differences.

3. Variable Settlement Amount. To the extent the funds delivered by the Client to cover the Buy Order estimated Settlement Amount exceed the actual Exchanged Amount after the Actual Rate is applied and Fees are deducted/added (the "Remainder"), the Remainder will be automatically credited to the Client Account Balance and available for further Instructions or Transactions, including without limitation an Instruction to return the Remainder to the Client's bank account. In cases of Buy Orders for which the Settlement Amount is to be delivered by a third party other than the Client, the Company may, without any additional Instruction, return the Remainder via domestic transfer of the currency of the Settlement Amount to the account from which the Company received the transfer of the Settlement Amount and, if the Company received the transfer of the Settlement Amount not via domestic transfer, the Remainder may, in Company's sole discretion, be either (1) automatically converted to the local currency of the Country of the account from which it was received under a standard Sell Order at the next available Reference Rate, or (2) returned via SWIFT or other non-domestic transfer, with "charges" on beneficiary or shared, to the account from which the Company received the transfer of the Settlement Amount. To the extent the funds delivered in advance by the Client to cover the Buy Order estimated Settlement Amount, after paying the applicable Fees and taking into account available Client Account Balance, are insufficient to settle the actual Settlement Amount after the Actual Rate is applied the Client agrees to promptly settle any remaining portion of the actual Settlement Amount, and the Company may hold back all or part of the Transaction Amount purchased by the Client until the Settlement Amount is fully settled or, in its discretion, unilaterally modify the Transaction Amount of the Order to an amount covered by the portion of the Settlement Amount actually received, in which case the Client may need to enter a new supplemental Order (with additional Fees) to complete the Transaction Amount delivery.. Client agrees to confirm, after the Actual Rate is applied to the Reference Rate Order, that the Settlement Amount was settled in full and agrees that, if not settled in full, the Company is not responsible for any failure or delay in completing the execution of an Instruction or making any portion of the currency purchased available in the Client Account Balance, regardless of whether and when the Company notified the Client of the failure to settle in full.

Addendum A

4. Reference Rate Unavailable. In the event a Reference Rate ceases to be published or is suspended or unreasonably delayed, the Company may in its discretion apply another reasonably comparable substitute independent reference rate from another Reference Rate Provider, to any Reference Rate Orders, including without limitation any Committed Trades. Alternatively, the Company may cancel the Reference Rate Orders, notify Client thereof, return any Settlement Amount received, and refund any Fees charged for a Committed Trade.

5. “Fast” Markets. The Company’s Reference Rate Order Services are available only during normal market conditions, where the volume and volatility of market activity in the Currency Pair are within three (3) standard deviations of historical market conditions for the previous twelve (12) months. During extraordinary market conditions on the applicable Reference Rate date prior to the Calculation Window, the Company may in its discretion unilaterally cancel any or all Committed Trades (and reject new Instructions or existing Reference Rate Orders that are not yet Committed Trades), notify Client promptly thereof, return any Settlement Amount received and refund any Fees charged for the Committed Trade. The Client agrees that in the event a Committed Trade is unilaterally cancelled by the Company as above, the Company is authorized to initiate a matching replacement Reference Rate Order at the next available applicable Reference Rate, subject to the Client’s right of cancellation before the new applicable cutoff. Notwithstanding normal market conditions prior to the Calculation Window, if the low-high range at any point during the Calculation Window exceeds 5% of the previous published Reference Rate, then, prior to the publication of the applicable Reference Rate, the Company, in its absolute discretion, is authorized to prospectively or retroactively amend the Reference Rate Order by substituting the indicated Reference Rate for another Reference Rate, to the extent available, whose Calculation Window is shorter and is completely within the original Calculation Window and whose halfway point is near the halfway point of the original Calculation Window.

6. Cutoffs. Reference Rate Orders received after the applicable Cutoff of a Reference Rate on a Currency Pair for that day’s Reference Rate will be automatically moved to the next available applicable Reference Rate. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Company may in its absolute discretion apply the nearer Reference Rate to any or all such Orders, but in no event will the Company do so after the relevant Calculation Window has begun without the consent of the Client. The Company shall bear no responsibility for commercially reasonable delay in processing an Order (including without limitation, processing a Deposit and the subsequently triggered Standing Instruction) which was received by the Company a short while before the Cutoff and was consequently set to the following available Reference Rate, provided that such Reference Rate appears in the Transaction Confirmation issued to the Client.

7. Early Advance. In the case of a Sell Order, the Client may request an Early Advance (defined below) of a portion of the estimated Exchanged Amount prior to the publication of the Actual Rate. The Company may deny the request for Early Advance or limit or condition it, in its sole discretion with the need to provide a reason, regardless of whether it has granted such requests on prior occasions. If the Company accepts the request for an Early Advance, it will estimate the Exchanged Amount based on current market exchange rates for the Currency Pair applicable to the Order and split the delivery of the Exchanged Amount between an initial Early Advance of a portion of estimated Exchanged Amount (the “Early Advance”) and the remainder of the actual Exchanged Amount, less and Fees to be deducted, to be determined and delivered following the publication of the Actual Rate. If after publication of the Actual Rate it is determined that the Early Advance was greater than the Exchanged Amount, less any Fees, actually due to the Client pursuant to the Reference Rate Order, whether due to extreme volatility in the market exchange rates or for any other reason, the Client agrees to immediately either (1) return the excess amount and close out any negative Account Balance or (2) submit an Instruction for a Buy Order to purchase the excess amount and timely fund the Settlement Amount for such Order. The Client understands that once an Early Advance is made or requested, the Reference Rate Order is noncancellable, even prior to the Cutoff.

8. Early Release. In the case of a Buy Order, the Company may, at its sole discretion, make an 'Early Release' of the payment(s) requested in the Instruction prior to the publication of the Actual Rate, after the Cutoff or after a written request by the Client for Early Release. If the Company executes an Early Release payment, the Clients' obligation to settle the full Settlement Amount in accordance with these Terms and Conditions, will be unaffected by the Early Release, and the Client agrees to immediately cover any shortfall in the estimated Settlement Amount received and/or Client Account Balance that may be determined after the calculation of the Exchanged Amount and the Settlement Amount, notwithstanding the fact that the payment was already executed. In the case of a written request by the Client for an Early Release prior to the Cutoff, The Client understands once an Early Release is made or requested, the Reference Rate Order is noncancellable, even prior to the Cutoff.

9. Conditional Order. The Client may request, and the Company in its discretion may enable, Instructions for Conditional Orders. The Rate Date for these Orders will not be set, and the Orders will not become Committed Trades, unless and until the Company receives a Conforming Deposit from the Specific Source designated in the Conditional Order Instruction, at which point the Rate Date will be set to the next available Reference Rate following the value date of such Deposit at the Company's account, provided the Deposit posted before the Cutoff for such Reference Rate. Client understands that no new Transaction Confirmation for the Reference Rate Order needs to be issued by the Company after such Rate Date is set, and no further approval or verification of the Order by the Client is required to be obtained by the Company. In the event that the amount of such Deposit from the Specific Source is significantly different than the estimated Exchanged Amount for a Buy Order or the Transaction Amount for a Sell Order, the Company in its sole discretion may (1) suspend the Conditional Order in Instruction and delay setting the Rate Date for the Instruction pending further clarifications from the Client regarding the Conditional Order's validity and the satisfactory arrangements between the Client and the Specific Person for the timely settlement of the Conditional Order or (2) proceed with setting the Rate Date for the Conditional Order as above and the Client will hold the Company harmless for any losses to the Client for failing to exercise its discretion and suspend the Conditional Order for further clarifications, the responsibility for the full settlement of the Condition Order being solely that of the Client regardless of any act, omission, intention, understanding or communication by a Specific Person that is other than the Client themselves. Furthermore, the Company in its sole discretion may suspend the Conditional Order in Instruction and delay setting the Rate Date for the Instruction pending clarifications from the Client regarding the application of the Deposit to the Conditional Order, including without limitation Nonconforming Deposits; Deposits lacking sufficient details to associate the payer with the Specific Person or the associate the Deposit as intended for the benefit of the Client OR Deposits necessitating further compliance inquiries (e.g., source of funds, source of wealth, blacklist screening, etc.). Client understands that certain obstacles to matching a Deposit with the Conditional Order may result in the Deposit being treated as a Nonconforming Deposit and returned to the Specific Person, without any fault of the Specific Person. Client agrees to promptly notify the Company in writing of Deposits made by any Specific Person on a Conditional Order or other counterparties that Client has instructed to make a Deposit to the Client's Account and will hold Company harmless for any losses resulting from delays in processing Deposits or returns of such Deposits for regarding which timely notification was not provided by the Client. The Client understands that the Specific Persons making Deposits are not parties to these Terms and Conditions, are not direct clients of the Company, are not entitled to obtain information from the Company regarding their Deposits or regarding any Reference Rate Order related to such Deposits and the Company has no obligations or responsibilities toward them whatsoever, including without limitation accepting any instruction from them regarding their Deposits or issuing them conformations regarding the Deposits or the Reference Rate Order executions or an invoices for Fees assessed to such Orders regardless of the Client's decision to pass through the cost of such Fees to the Specific Person. In addition to the conditions explicitly outlined in this Addendum, the Conditional Order Instructions and Deposits are subject to all other provisions specified in these Terms and Conditions.

Addendum B

Book Transfers

1. Effectiveness of Book Transfer Received: The Company will treat any Book Transfer to the Client as an ordinary Deposit under these Terms and Conditions and will notify the Client of the Book Transfer, including the identity of the client initiating the Book Transfer. Client, on the other hand, agrees to treat such Book Transfer received, for legal, accounting, tax and all other intents and purposes, no different than an electronic funds transfer effected through a regulated payment system.
2. Indorsement/Guarantee: By making a Book Transfer, Client indorses and guarantees the Book Transfer to the transferee and assigns to the transferee all of its rights to any indorsements and guarantees running with the source of the Book Transfer, to the extent identifiable.

Addendum C

Trust Accounts

1. Liability for Financial Activity. The Account Beneficiary acknowledges that any financial liability arising from the Transactions and Instructions in the Account pursuant to these Terms and Conditions rests solely upon them. This includes, but is not limited to, losses, damages, or other pecuniary consequences resulting from the use of the Company's Services or as otherwise dictated by the Terms and Conditions. Likewise, the Account Beneficiary assumes exclusive responsibility for full and timely Settlement of all elements of any Settlement Amount and Fees, as outlined in the Terms and Conditions and Fee Schedule as updated from time to time.

2. Non-Involvement of the Company. The Company explicitly states that it is not a party to any disputes that may arise between the Account Beneficiary and the Trustee. Beneficiary and Trustee shall each indemnify and hold Company harmless from and against any and all claims, losses, damages, liabilities, costs, and expenses, including reasonable attorneys' fees and costs, arising out of or in connection with (i) any dispute between the Account Beneficiary and Trustee, and/or (ii) any dispute between the Company and the other party.

3. Beneficial Ownership. The Beneficiary affirms that it is the Beneficial Owner of the funds held in the Account by the Trustee. The Beneficiary agrees to fulfill all reporting obligations associated with such ownership, including without limitation, filing timely and accurate US FBAR reports and/or equivalent reports of foreign accounts required by applicable law. With that, the Trustee acknowledges their legal title to and ownership of the funds in the Account and commits to fulfilling reporting obligations related to its legal title of Account and the funds, as may be required under any applicable law.

4. Waiver of Control over Trust Account. The parties understand and agree that the primary intent and design of the trust account are to restrict access to and control of the Account Beneficiary's funds, via the Services, to the Trustee alone. The Account Beneficiary acknowledges that regardless of the reason and background, the Company will not honor any request or Instruction from the Account Beneficiary to dispose of the funds in its Account or to effectuate or prevent any Transaction in the Account. This may leave the Account Beneficiary completely dependent on the Trustee, with no independent access to funds which belong to them and which they are entitled to. Beneficiary explicitly accepts this risk and agrees to address any concerns or complaints about the activity, Transactions or Instructions in the Account directly and exclusively with the Trustee, releasing Company from any responsibility or obligation to resolve or handle any such complaints. Without derogating from the foregoing, the Company may choose, in its sole discretion from time to time, to monitor and intervene in the activity of the Trustee or not and the Beneficiary agrees to hold the Company harmless for choosing to do so or not and waives any claim against the Company for any supervision or lack thereof in detecting or acting on any such Instruction, Transaction or activity of the Trustee.

5. Complying with Inquiries. To ensure compliance with applicable laws and regulations, the Company reserves the right to initiate inquiries and request information concerning the source of funds, the nature or purpose of transactions, or any other inquiry or request for information it deems necessary, as outlined in the Terms and Conditions (See, without limiting, Additional Compliance Information (Section on Additional Terms)). Both the Beneficiary and Trustee are each separately obligated to fully cooperate with these inquiries and requests. The Trustee represents that, pursuant to its written agreements with the Beneficiary and applicable law, it is entitled to demand and obtain from the Beneficiary information and documents requested for such purposes by the Company.
